

RELIEF BILL TO CONFERENCE FOR SOME CHANGING

Roosevelt Reported to Back Ickes' Protests on Restrictions

BULLETIN

Washington, April 1—(AP)—The House stood by President Roosevelt today to send the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill back to conference with the Senate for elimination of the "direct work" limitation. The vote was 249 to 110.

Washington, April 1—(AP)—Administration leadership in both branches of Congress strove mightily today to get the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill back where they could eliminate the "direct work" qualification inserted in conference. While the House debated "sag rule" procedure to resubmit the measure to the conferees, Senator Robinson pleaded in the Senate that its spokesmen in the negotiations with the House "cooperate" for removal of the protested clause.

Unless they do so, he said, other steps would be taken, indicating the conferees would be displaced. Senator Glass (D. Va.), head of the Senate group, appeared obdurate for the section at issue, however. He had just written to Secretary Ickes asserting all Senate conferees were opposed to sending the bill back to conference.

In "Enemies' Hands" Robinson asserted four of the five Senate conferees were "opposed to the bill" and added it was "regrettable that the custom had prevailed in the Senate of too frequently committing a bill to its enemies."

Glass replied by reading his letter to Ickes. This said the direct labor amendment was "designed to prevent loans for purchase of existing plants with no appreciable amount of new and direct work involved and merely or largely to effect a change in ownership or management."

After stating the purpose of the bill was to "provide relief, work relief and to increase employment by providing for useful projects," Glass wrote:

"Apparently you do not agree with this clear legislative purpose, but feel that the public moneys involved should be made available—first, for any social revision or upheaval determined upon by those selected to administer the legislation, and—second, for such employment as their social and economic program may permit, x x x"

In Robinson's view, "the effect of the direct labor provision is to make impossible or impracticable loaning of any part of $900,000,000 for housing, rural electrification and perhaps some other projects."

Earlier Report
Washington, April 1—(AP)—Fresh information on President Roosevelt's attitude led house leaders to decide today to send the $4,880,000,000 relief bill back to conference with the Senate.

The leaders steered clear of a final commitment as to what would be done pending a conference later in the day, however.

It was reported authoritatively that the chief executive had agreed with Secretary Ickes that congress the requiring that one-third of the requiring that one-third of the $900,000,000 allocated to federal projects should be spent for "direct work."

It was added, by a leader who declined to let his name be used, that the president had suggested the method of deleting the objectionable language should be left up to congressional leaders.

Seek Quick Settlement
These leaders previously had suggested that the bill be passed with the direct work requirement in it, and an amendatory resolution adopted later. But receipt of new word as to the president's opposition to the clause made them change their minds to seek quicker settlement.

The new plan meant that every effort would be made to knock out of the bill, now, the limitation on the $900,000,000 for non-federal projects.

Leaders also said it promised a delay of from two or three days to weeks while the bill was worked over again in conference.

Against Confirmation
It was indicated clearly, too, that the president has informed leaders of his opposition to the Senate amendment requiring Senate confirmation of persons chosen to handle the big fund, or any portion of it. It would apply to new employees receiving $5,000 a year or more.

Speaker Byrns, declining to confirm or deny that he had heard of the president's attitude, told newspapermen:

"I feel very sure that the president is very much opposed to that direct work requirement because he would rather have a free hand in the expenditure of the money and also because it might prevent the use of money for worthy projects."

SMILES

Reported in Today's
News From All Parts
of World

By The Clock—Skidmore, Mo., April 1—(AP)—For six months Pearl Taylor, county newspaper carrier, thought he was about the "promptest" man in this section of the country. He arrived here each evening just at 5:27 by the postoffice clock.

Boasting of his punctuality to a resident the other day, he was informed the clock hadn't been running since last summer.

Marauder Rescued—Chicago, April 1—(AP)—Police answered a call to arrest a marauder at the Belmont hospital nurses' home here, but it turned out to be a rescue instead. Harold Peterson, the alleged marauder, was just about ready for an emergency ward when officers arrived at the home after eight nurses and one of the girl's escorts captured Harold in a dormitory. Oh, yes—the escort is a trained boxer.

Foolers Fooled—Philadelphia, April 1—(AP)—To fool would-be April foolers, who for years have given more trouble than the elephants, the telephone company has come to the rescue of the zoo.

Three special operators have been assigned to the administration office switchboard to inform all who call for "Mr. Fox or Mr. Lyon" that they're talking to the zoo, and then hang up.

Sound Sleeper—Chicago, April 1—(AP)—Five-year-old Alfred Lock is a sound sleeper.

His father, Dr. Frank Lock of Chicago, left Alfred asleep in his car when he entered a drug store last night. When he came out the car and the boy were gone.

An hour later police discovered Lock's car parked some distance away with the motor running and Alfred still sleeping in the rear seat. The thieves had fled.

Suspicion Spreads—Natural prevaricators or unnatural ones, and those who merely "exaggerate" were not the only ones upon whom Dixon citizenry cast wary eyes today.

A few of the old hands at the game of stretching the truth were listened to with customary suspicion and doubt but those noted for their sincerity enjoyed a field day of little white lies at the expense of their friends, for today was April Fool's Day.

The most glibbly fell for the usual jokes designed to prey on the impulse of the moment. If someone told his friend he had grease on his nose, he probably rushed to the mirror in horror to confirm the frightful accusation. Others unwittingly sprinkled spoonfuls of salt from innocent looking sugar bowls on their pancakes, or chewed futilely on rubber doughnuts well-powered with sugar. Phoney telegrams, messages "to be delivered in person" and other "complicated" pranks snared the more wily.

Senate Committee Rejects Baruch Plan

Washington, Apr. 1—(AP)—The munitions committee in a report today as to the Senate threw its weight behind the drastic Flynn plan to take the profits out of war. It voted opposition to principles laid down by Bernard M. Baruch, financier, for placing a "ceiling" over the price structure in time of war; and indicated more money would be sought to complete its investigation carried on for the past six months at a cost of $100,000.

In addition, it voted endorsement of the efforts in Geneva to obtain "more rigorous international control of the arms traffic."

Another stand was that a constitutional amendment "to eliminate tax exempt bonds" was essential to block a "loophole" for war profits.

Several of Lee County Bridges in Poor Condition, Co. Supt. Declares

Bridges in Lee county, some of which have been condemned for a period of years and are considered to be in a very poor condition at the present time will be considered by the board of supervisors at the special reorganization meeting to be held this month. County Supt. of Highways Fred W. Leake stated today that in some instances roads would be closed unless bridge structures were replaced.

The Rockford bridge, spanning Green river south of Amboy, is considered to be in extremely bad condition, the county superintendent stated, and plans are now in Springfield calling for the replacement of this structure at the earliest possible date. It is estimated that the cost of replacement would amount to approximately $7,500 it was stated. This particular structure was condemned several years ago according to Supt. Leake, who further declared that it was in extremely bad condition at the present time, and is considered to be the most dangerous of any of the bridges in the county.

DISAGREE OVER NRA COURT TEST

Lumber Code Authority
Wants Hearing by
Supreme Court

Washington, April 1—(AP)—The Justice Department today formally asked the supreme court to dismiss the case against W. E. Belcher of Alabama, which had been expected to test the constitutionality of the National Recovery Act.

Just as the dismissal motion was filed by Stanley Reed, Solicitor General, the lumber code authority reversed itself a second time and announced it would protest the dismissal.

The authority will ask the court's permission to file a brief in opposition to dismissal of the Belcher case. Whether the court would grant this permission was considered doubtful by some.

The justices were expected to rule on the government's motion later today.

Defendant Insists.
Only minutes after Reed filed his dismissal, the lumber code authority said that H. Burdett Burr of Birmingham, Ala., attorney for Belcher, would oppose dismissal and insist the case be brought to trial to end "the deadening uncertainty" surrounding NRA and the lumber code.

Simultaneously in the senate, Senator Clark (D-Mo.) introduced jointly for Senator Hastings (R-Del.), and himself a resolution asking the attorney general to prosecute the appeal in the Belcher case so that NRA's constitutionality could be determined before congress acts on its extension.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, objected to its immediate consideration, and on his motion the Clark-Hastings resolution was referred to the finance committee already considering the NRA bill.

Three Arrested After Passing Literature to Weaken's Navy Morale

Long Beach, Calif., April 1—(AP)—Three men said by shore patrol officers to have been distributing literature "obviously intended to weaken the morale of the navy" were arrested here yesterday, but two of them escaped before police arrived to take them to jail. The third, a youth giving his name as Eddie Freeman, 17, was booked as a runaway suspect after he refused to give his parents' name or his address. Officers said they seized a large quantity of literature.

Baby Abandoned
Rockford, Ill., April 1—A 10-months old girl was abandoned here early Sunday morning at home of C. E. Nelson, excavating contractor. His dog's barking awoke Nelson and he found the baby.

EDUCATION FOR ADULTS IS MADE POSSIBLE HERE

Registration for IERC
Program in Dixon is Set for Tomorrow

The Dixon public school system has taken advantage of the federal relief program in providing adult education in this city, for which the sum of $500 is set aside for Lee county. An application for such a project was filed by A. H. Lancaster, superintendent of the city school system, which has been approved.

A preliminary registration for adult education classes will be held in the auditorium of the South Central school on Hennepin avenue and Fifth Street tomorrow. Those planning to take advantage of the extra educational program may register between 2 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon or between 7 and 9 o'clock tomorrow evening.

The general education program of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission is designed to meet some of the needs of groups who for one reason or another did not find it possible to continue training in public schools or in other educational institutions of the community. These classes give useful employment to unemployed teachers.

Teachers are available in Dixon for the following subjects: business English, literature, French, public speaking, United States history, wood shop work, mechanical drawing, business arithmetic, music, business training and sewing. Classes in subjects for which ten or more register will be held each week at convenient hours.

Classes in shorthand, typing and bookkeeping may be organized with the following limitations:

New courses are to be offered only to those on relief who might with this training be able to obtain employment; more advanced courses may be offered to those who have had some previous training in the commercial field, but who are now unemployed and feel the need for keeping themselves in practice.

A class for the teaching of English for foreign-born may be organized if ten or more register for this instruction. The adults of Dixon are urged to participate in this general education program.

OFFICE WORKERS OF HUPP MOTOR CAR CO. PURGED

Detroit, April 1—(AP)—All office employees of the Hupp Motor Car Co., including the entire engineering staff, were dismissed today and locked out of the plant. About 300 persons were affected by the order.

William B. Hurlburt, assistant to Archie M. Andrews, chairman of the company, described the action as a "purge."

The dismissal was an outgrowth of the federal court suit in which J. Walter Drake, former chairman, asked that Andrews be required to resign and that contracts entered into by him be voided. The management, some of the dismissed office staff said, blamed "leaks" in the staff for knowledge of the management's affairs which reached Drake.

The notice said that applications for re-employment would be received from "loyal" workers.

"We are using the vacuum cleaner," Hurlburt said. "We'll move in the new 'furniture' later."

Drake obtained a court order Saturday temporarily restraining Andrews and five other directors from putting the disrupted contracts into effect.

News Received of J. H. Heckman Death

A communication from Los Angeles, Calif., was received this morning announcing the death of J. H. Heckman formerly of Dixon. Mr. and Mrs. Heckman celebrated their golden wedding anniversary October 28, 1934 and their many Dixon friends were pleased to be informed of the event.

The communication received today from Mrs. Heckman reads:

"J. H. Heckman passed away on February 23. He was the last member of a family of twelve. He left his wife Lydia Heckman, a son Clarence H. and Hazel Heckman, Mrs. E. S. Labaig, daughters and a grandson Clarence. He was buried in Englewood cemetery with full Masonic rites. He was a member of the A. F. & A. M. 352 Los Angeles, a Scottish rite and a Shriner.

I wish to thank you very much for past favors, and if you ever visit California, call on us and we will be glad to extend to you our hospitality.

SOIL EXPERT DEAD

Moline, Ill.—Dr. W. E. Taylor, 80, author and nationally known soil culture expert, died at his home after a brief illness. He practiced medicine in Monmouth, Ill., as a young man and was mayor of Monmouth. He was head of the soil culture department of Deere & Co. implement manufacturers.

TERSE ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED IN DIXON DURING DAY

Dangers Outlined—Cal G. Tyler, Commissioner of Public Health and Safety calls the attention of all motorists to the danger of careless driving at intersections where school children pass on their way to and from school. Places which are particularly dangerous are: North Galena and Morgan, Peoria and Fifth and Galena and Fifth. The American Legion is sponsoring this Safety First Program, and Commissioner Tyler has been conferring with the traffic expert of the Chicago Motor Club.

Saw Flooded Area—Mrs. Arthur Morris, who returned today from a visit at Hot Springs, Ark., had a most interesting experience on the journey home when her train passed through one of the flooded areas of Arkansas. She saw marooned families living in tents, animals stranded in the flood, and water over the railroad right of way, the train proceeding at snail's pace.

Relief Gardens—Unemployed of Dixon who are on the relief rolls are lagging behind those in other townships of the county in registering for relief gardens and it was announced this morning that all such who wish to plant gardens this spring must register at relief headquarters this week in order to receive the free seeds from the IERC.

Moves to Dixon—Harry D. Newcomer, recently moved to Dixon from Glenn Ellyn, has rented the house recently vacated by Attorney Sherwood Dixon, and expects very soon to be occupying it. Mr. Newcomer is a nephew of F. X. Newcomer and is associated with the F. X. Newcomer & Co.

On Short Waves—M. A. Crawford 1211 Long Avenue, is in receipt of a card from the British Broadcasting Corporation, GSB, Daventry, England, commending him on his report of their broadcast. Mr. Crawford states that he received the broadcast very clearly and also tunes in station located in Australia, Germany and Russia, as well as other European broadcasts.

Derrick Arrives—An 11-ton derrick to be used in the construction of the new concrete bridge across the Seven-mile branch creek, north of the city on the Lowell Park road, was brought through the city this afternoon from Rochelle by Contractor R. R. Beard of LaMoille. State highway police accompanied the heavy piece of machinery from Rochelle to Dixon.

Auto Caught Fire—A car driven by Fred Wohne caught fire at the corner of Fellows street and North Galena Avenue this morning at 11 o'clock. The fire department was called to extinguish the fire which caused but minor damage to the machine.

Audit Meeting—The road and bridge committee of the board of supervisors were holding their regular monthly audit meeting at the office of County Superintendent of Highways Fred W. Leake today.

Licensed to Wed—A marriage license has been issued by County Clerk Sterling D. Schrock to Ignace B. Kresin and Mrs. Marya Sjabelska, both of Davenport, Iowa.

Garbage Collection—Free collection of garbage started in Dixon this morning and citizens desiring the services of the collector should call LI178.

Russian Woman Claims Parachute Jump Record

Moscow, Apr. 1—(AP)—Vera Fedoroffa, the wife of a Red Army officer, today claimed the woman's parachute jumping record after an asserted leap to 6,350 meters—20,833 feet—from an airplane near Leningrad yesterday. She made the jump without oxygen apparatus.

Mme. Fedoroffa was reported to have been in the air 22 minutes after she left the plane, which was piloted by the Russian high altitude jumper, Kaithanoff, who, himself, on March 6, claimed the world record for men without the use of oxygen with a jump of 22,160 feet.

580,000 Youth Called to German Army Camps

London, April 1—(AP)—Unconfirmed British press reports said today the German military class of 1935, totaling 580,000 young men, would respond to the new conscription law today by reporting for their medical examination.

These same reports said a total of 8,500,000 men is likely to be called up eventually for military training in pursuit of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's program to reestablish Germany as a first-line military power.

(In Berlin official quarters refused to comment upon the reports.)

STRANGE INCOME TAX LAWS CITED

Andrew Mellon Witness
Today in Hearing on His '31 Deduction

Pittsburgh, April 1—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon took the responsibility on the witness stand at his income tax hearing for the deductions made in his 1931 income tax report.

"The financier said the country's 'strange' laws governing income taxes made necessary the transactions which the government claims were fraudulent, but which Mellon claims were legitimate.

Called unexpectedly to the stand, by his chief counsel, Frank J. Hogan, Mellon was questioned concerning the sale of a huge block of Pittsburgh Coal common stock on which he claimed a tax loss of $5,600,000.

"Who conducted the sale?" asked Hogan.

"I did myself," said Mellon. The former Secretary of the Treasury spoke slowly in a low but distinct tone.

"Tell us how it came about," continued Hogan, referring to the Pittsburgh Coal sale.

Cites "Strange Law"

"I had under consideration the question of my tax return for the year in the office of Mr. Johnson (Howard M. Johnson, Mellon's confidential secretary)," said the banker. "I had had large losses and shrinkage in my investments. I also had large capital gain profits upon which I was obligated to pay a capital gain tax.

"I desired to select some security or securities for the purpose of the deduction allowable in that respect. The strange law which made me liable for a capital gain tax also allowed the privilege of reduction, so the Pittsburgh coal stock appeared to be the outstanding stock with respect to loss."

The 80-year-old three-time Secretary of the Treasury was the first witness called today at the resumption of the hearing now in its seventh week. The government claims Mellon owes a tax and assessment of $3,089,000 but the banker contends he paid the government $139,000 too much. The hearing is underway before the Board of Tax Appeals.

MARCH ROARED OFF CALENDAR WITH A WHOOP

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Spring tornadoes and winter blasts were grim reminders today that March had bowed off the year's calendar with a roar.

Frenchish winds and tornadoes took seven lives and caused considerable property damage in Mississippi and Texas; winter gripped the northern Rocky Mountain sector and sent cold blasts through the middlewest; bathers flocked to the southern beaches while out in the dust belt farmers and ranchers hoped for rain but saw only familiar billowing clouds of silt and sand.

Moisture laden clouds hovered over much of the middle-west today with light rains reported in Missouri and eastern Kansas. Streets were flooded at Charleston, in southeastern Missouri, after a heavy rain. Snow in western Nebraska, southern Wyoming and parts of Montana clarified the dust laden air.

Heavy rainfall was general throughout southern and central Mississippi where tornadoes ripped through five counties, killed five persons and injured at least eight others. Two persons were killed in the Texas coast region. Oil derricks, trees and farm buildings were torn down near Galveston.

Unseasonably cold weather was experienced in Montana, the mercury dropped to two degrees above zero at Miles City, Mont. below freezing temperatures prevailed from central Kansas northward. A snowstorm at Spokane, Wash., lasted an hour before the clouds were scattered by a brisk northeast wind.

Huey Long Predicts Roosevelt Will Head Third Party in 1936 Election

Washington, April 1—(AP)—Huey Long predicted today President Roosevelt might be the "third party" candidate of 1936 instead of himself or some other "Share-the-Wealth" leader.

"We may not have to form a third party," Louisiana's Kingfish snorted in response to a question as to when he would announce his plans. "Roosevelt may be the one leading a third party."

"He's already started a couple of third parties. He began to organize one in 1932 when he thought he might not get the democratic nomination, and he organized one in 1933 when he ran this fellow McKee against LaGuardia for mayor of New York.

"This ain't a Democratic party deny it."

TRAGEDIES

Reported in Today's
News From All Parts
of World

(By The Associated Press.)
Six fliers plunged to their deaths in Sunday accidents witnessed by hundreds of spectators.

A plane piloted by Jack Barstow veteran glider pilot, locked wings with another flown by Eddie Johnson, manager of the Corpus Christi Texas, airport, and fell a hundred feet away from scores of spectators, Barstow and Jack Cowgill, a reporter for the Corpus Times, who was a passenger, were killed. Johnson escaped with only minor injuries.

Barstow was associated with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in glider experiments in San Diego, Calif., in 1930.

At De Leon, Tex., a student pilot, Cecil Cook, 20, was burned to death after his plane fell from a low altitude and burst into flames two miles south of the city. Witnesses said his rescue was impossible because of heat.

L. W. Abbott, 35, and Claude Morin, 28, were killed when Abbott's monoplane plummeted near an airport at Elmhurst, a few miles west of Chicago. With Abbott at the controls the ship crumpled 25 feet from a radio transmitting tower.

Experimenting with a glider wing Floyd Davis, 22, parachute jumper, hurtled 6,000 feet to death near Flint, Mich., when one of his two parachutes fouled in the glider wing attached to his back. Davis had hoped to use the wing, a four foot span of fabric, to guide his flight to earth.

Killed on Highway—Chicago, April 1—(AP)—George O. Brookshier, 63, of Clifton Hill, Mo., was killed early today when struck by a truck on Highway 49, two miles north of Monee, as he was standing beside his own truck, parked by the highway. Clyde Hazelwood, 34, Sharon, Tenn., driver of the machine that hit Brookshier, told authorities he did not see the man in time to avoid the accident. Hazelwood was held for questioning by county highway police.

An Aged Hero—Chicago—(AP)—Carl Rick, 81, had strength—two kinds. Walking with his five-year-old grandson, William Rick, Jr., the grandfather saw a car bring down on them. Even with the knowledge that it meant his own life, he called on all the energy in his aged muscles to give the child a shove forward and then fell before the wheels of the car. He died a short time later.

French Ace Killed—Beauvais, France, April 1—(AP)—Robert Bajac, 36, one of France's youngest war aviators and chief pilot of the French European Commercial Service, was killed today in a plane crash. During the war Bajac brought down three German planes and was himself wounded during an air battle.

$65,000,000 IS ADDED TO GOVT. PAYROLL TODAY

Washington, April 1—(AP)—Salaries of government employees were restored today to their pre-depression level, adding an estimated $65,000,000 annually to the federal payroll.

Simultaneously with effectiveness of the recent congressional act increasing government wages to the point they stood before the 1933 economy act pay-cuts, the Civil Service Commission announced the number of workers in federal executive departments was 680,546, the largest since the war period.

The official tabulation placed the number of such workers in Washington alone at 95,517, which is more than at any time since 1920.

The total does not include workers in the legislative, judicial and military branches of the government, nor 339,584 in emergency conservation work.

The all time record number of executive employees was 917,760 on November 11, 1918, at the time of the World War armistice.

WILL OF DOCTOR MURPHY ON FILE IN COUNTY COURT

Estate, With Exception of Special Bequests,

The will of the late Dr. E. S. Murphy, dated July 24, 1931 and naming his son, David L. Murphy, as executor without surety bond, was filed for probate in the Lee county court today by Attorney Sherwood Dixon. No inventory of the late doctor's estate was filed with the will, which provides that after the payment of all lawful debts the entire estate shall go to his widow, Katherine L. Murphy, with the exception of special bequests, among which are:

To his sons, Dr. David L. Murphy and Edward S. Murphy, all office equipment, including medical and surgical supplies, instruments, x-ray machine and accessories, with a provision that Edward S. Murphy shall not inherit his share of the foregoing until he has received his degree of Doctor in Medicine, then the two sons shall share alike the office property on the basis of its valuation at the time of the testator's death. A clause in the will at this point states "If it is practical and of economic value to practice together in a common office suite, then a division will not be necessary, as long as they continue together." The two sons are also bequeathed the medical library and the doctor's guns and hunting equipment, the division to be made by agreement.

Other Bequests Made
To his daughter, Sarah Louise, the doctor's non-medical library is to go after the death of her mother, and she also is bequeathed the doctor's Ford coupe.

Dr. Murphy's half interest in the old homestead in East Grove township, consisting of 120 acres, will revert to the estate, since the brother, Philip Murphy, to whom the doctor left the half interest, has passed away.

Other requests include: To Helen Murphy, daughter-in-law, $250; to Rosemary Murphy, granddaughter $250; to John H. Roberts, "competent and loyal technician and radiologist since 1907, $500; to Anna G. O'Malley, "competent and loyal surgical nurse since 1912, $500; to Paul J. Fry, "competent and loyal technician and pharmacist since 1929, $150; to Katherine Sullivan, "competent and loyal secretary since 1930, $150; to Jacob Dockery, "faithful chauffeur, $50; to Sarah L. Murphy, daughter, Eastman camera; to David L. Murphy, Graphlex camera; to Louis A. Bittor of Sterling, Lica camera, its projector and equipment.

The will further provides that in accordance with the terms of the insurance trust agreement the income will be paid monthly to the widow during her lifetime, and after her death the insurance shall be divided equally between the two sons and the daughter. It is directed that other residual funds shall be converted into government bonds of equivalent of safety and liquidity, and provision is made that these funds may be used as needed for the education of Edward S. Murphy or for additional income to the widow.

Edward Murphy recently completed his medical training.

Mrs. A. J. Hollenbeck of Nelson is Called

Mrs. A. J. Hollenbeck, wife of Addison J. Hollenbeck, prominent stock raiser residing on the Rock Island road south of Nelson, passed away at her home Sunday afternoon. She had been in failing health for several weeks, the result of a stroke which she suffered early in the winter.

Arkansas Statute of Grace for Delinquents Held Invalid

Washington, April 1.—(AP)—An Arkansas law extending from two to four years within which owners could redeem property sold for delinquent assessments to meet obligations on bonds issued by improvement districts was declared invalid today by the supreme court.
The state supreme court had sustained the 1933 legislation in a case brought against Coburn C. Kavanagh, a Little Rock property owner.
A Little Rock street improvement district issued bonds under a previous act which provided that property could be sold for delinquent assessments with the owner permitted to recover title at any time within two years at the price it brought at the sale, plus certain charges.
After default of the bonds, suits were begun against property owners to force payment of delinquent assessments. Judgment was obtained against Kavanagh. He admitted his property could be condemned and sold but contended the sale must be under the 1933 law enacted after issuance of the bonds. The 1933 act substantially reduced certain charges and in general was much more favorable to the property owners than the former law.

Federal Marshal, 79, Injured, Wife Killed in Auto Collision

Burlington, Ia., Apr. 1—(AP)—Deputy United States Marshal Thomas P. Gray, 79, of Keokuk, said to be the oldest deputy marshal in the state in point of service, was critically injured and his wife, 70, was fatally hurt last evening when their automobile, driven by Gray, is reported to have crashed head-on into a Jackson line bus near here on route 61.
Mrs. Gray died last night in a hospital here and Gray was in a semi-conscious condition this morning.
The couple had visited in Davenport and were en route to their home in Keokuk at the time of the crash. According to Stanley Jackson of Keokuk, driver of the bus, the car driven by Gray was out of control as it rounded a sharp curve at the top of a hill and swerved across the highway into the path of the bus.
Reports from the Katherine Shaw Betha hospital this afternoon indicated no change in the condition of Prof. L. B. Neighbour, who submitted to a serious operation last week.

DOUGHNUT SALE IS BIG SUCCESS FOR TROOP 76

Hope To Raise Funds for Representative to Jamboree

PRESS CLUB ITEMS.
Troop 76, Lutheran Church.
By George Slothower.
At the regular meeting of March 26 at St. Paul's Lutheran Troop 76 held Tuesday evening, church, the boys reported the progress made in taking orders for the doughnut sale. They hope to earn a substantial sum which is to be used for the purpose of sending a scout to the National Jamboree at Washington in August. The cooperation the boys are receiving is appreciated. Signalling was practiced. Games were played and the meeting was adjourned with the scout benediction.
Troop 118, Colored Boys.
By James Swain.
Troop 118 met at 7:30 P. M., Wednesday evening, March 27. The meeting was opened by the senior patrol leader. There were short instructions given by the scoutmaster on second class work. First aid and forestry were chiefly discussed. There was a hike planned for Friday afternoon at one o'clock. Two boys joined the troop within the last month increasing our ranks to fourteen.

Troop 67, Evangelical Church.

By Lawrence Palmer.
After the Friday night meeting, the attendance was not as good as it should have been. Eight were present and three absent ones were excused. Spring time is hike time and a number of scouts took advantage of spring vacation and several hikes were enjoyed by patrols and scouts during the past week. The troop plans to take an overnight hike April 26. The hike sale planned for last Saturday, was postponed until a later date. A keen interest was shown in the special first aid course with seven scouts enrolled. The troop is also looking forward to the many good ball games; a team has been organized with Scout Van Metre as manager and Scout Buckingham as captain. There have been several practice games, and they are ready to book games with any other troop desiring to play. The Flying Eagle Patrol had charge of the stunts and games before the scout benediction.
Troop 73, Methodist Church.
(Contributed)
Troop 73 practiced signalling, and first aid at their regular Monday night meeting this week. Games were played by the ten scouts who were present. Scoutmaster Henry Hubbell will relinquish his duties in connection with Troop 73 in favor of a new scoutmaster this week as his work prevents him from the responsibilities he feels a scoutmaster owes the troop.

Troop 116, West End.

By William Stothower, Jr.
Troop 116 is progressing rapidly under the guidance of Scoutmaster Arthur Handell and the American Legion. The membership was increased from seven to eighteen in two meetings and the boys expect to enlarge the troop still further. Most of the boys are learning the necessary details that a tenderfoot scout must know. Knot tying seems to be a great attraction and in another meeting the boys of this troop will be able to tie nine useful knots. Scoutmaster Handell hopes to have his boys advanced to tenderfoot in two weeks or less, and certainly the boys are behind their scoutmaster.

NEWS of the CHURCHES

CHURCH of the BRETHREN

The Brethren Sunday school had another occasion for rejoicing yesterday when the report showed the attendance for the first quarter of the year 1935 had made a seven per cent gain over the same period one year ago. A number have been hindered in their attendance on account of illness the last month and this record is good news in the face of the sickness and bad weather during the quarter. The school is putting on a loyalty campaign for increased attendance for the months of April, May and June, the second quarter of the year. Every department of the school is making plans for increased and regular attendance. The school has had a steady growth for some time with all departments of the church work in good condition. Miss Marie Thompson is superintendent of the school and Miss Kathryn Lehman is secretary.
An evangelistic campaign will be launched next Sunday conducted by the pastor and assisted by some neighboring ministers. The meeting will culminate in the Easter services.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

"Enlistment Sunday" was a great success in every way. Record attendance was attained at all services. The Bible School reached its highest mark since last Easter. Extra chairs had to be set in to provide seating capacity at both morning and evening church services. The roll call was a feature of the morning service. The Bible School and church members enlisted a hundred per cent to help make the "Loyalty Campaign" a success.
The Bible School attendance was 452. The adult classes reported as follows: Upstreamers 57; Men 55; True Blue 41; Pilgrims 41; Young Men 36; Young People, 25.
A baptismal service was held on Sunday afternoon at which four were baptized.
A calendar with pictures of pastor and wife and the church, and announcing the ten feature Sunday night services were distributed Sunday evening.
Regular meeting of the church board at 8:00 tonight.
The Missionary Circle will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. Ward Hall 5521 E. McKinney st.
A chicken dinner will be served by the elder's wives this evening at 6:30 to the special committee of thirty that will complete the every home visitation.
The Missionary Guild will meet Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Mabel Ortgiesen, 829 North Dixon Ave.
All day meeting of the Ladies Aid Society Wednesday.
The executive committee of the W. M. S. will meet at 2:00 Wednesday afternoon.
A special service of prayer will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 looking toward the Pre-Easter evangelistic services and the loyalty campaign.
The Women's Missionary Society will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 at the parsonage. This will be the annual guest meeting with the men in charge of the program.
The Gleaner's Club will have a picnic supper Friday evening at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan

Photo. Cars will leave the church at 6:00.

"What is the Most Horrible of Sins?" will be the sermon subject next Sunday night. What do you think? Hand in your answer next Sunday morning. A gift awaits the one who first presents the correct answer.

F. D. R. GETS MAIL

Miami, Fla., April 1—(AP)—Tanned by southern sunshine and breezes, President Roosevelt went to work today on an accumulation of mail and some business arriving from Washington.
Two naval seaplanes carried pouches to him yesterday off Crooked island on the curve back homeward from the trip through the deep Bahama group.
On his sixth day out of the capital, the president found only one minor bill from congress to be signed but a very good stack of mail and reports.
He was looking forward to receipt of the $400,000,000 record peace time army appropriation bill, and also for the $4,880,000,000 work relief measure still awaiting final action by congress.
There was no indication from here of a move on his part to intervene in the issue raised by Secretary Ickes on the final form of the work relief measure.
The yacht Nourmahal carrying the president, trailed by the destroyer Farragut, anchored off Crooked island yesterday, and, in the words of Roosevelt, "all hands went ashore to Sandy beach this afternoon for sun bath and swim."

Acres for Spring Wheat Boosted Today

Washington, April 1—(AP)—The AAA declared officially today that spring wheat farmers may increase their acreage up to 165 per cent of the average acreage planted to wheat during the 1928 to 1932 period.
The announcement changed the original declaration of Secretary Wallace on March 20 which held that producers would not be required to make the ten per cent reduction which had been decreed last fall.
Officials of the wheat section subsequently said that farmers would be allowed to plant any amount of acreage this year under the wheat contract, but would be required to agree to reduce acreage by a corresponding amount in 1936 if called upon.
The limitation of 165 per cent of the base period average places a limitation which will make possible a compensating reduction in 1936, if the AAA submits a wheat program to farmers, officials explained.

Meeting of Palmyra Mutual Aid Society

Mrs. Edward Mensch most delightfully entertained twenty-two members, eleven visitors and four children of the Palmyra Mutual Aid Society Wednesday at her home. At noon, a most delicious dinner was served. The afternoon was spent socially. The president called the meeting to order. Mrs. John Sheaffer had charge of the devotions. She read a Scripture passage, after which all repeated the Lord's Prayer. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were approved. There was no new business, so the members answered roll call with house cleaning suggestions. The collection plate was passed and the business meeting adjourned to meet again, Wednesday, April 10th, with Miss Anza Lawton. A program was then presented by the group of girls who were visitors at the meeting. A song, "Take the Name of Jesus With You," was sung by all. Mary Frances Buhler gave a reading, "The Old Maid's Burglar." A piano solo was played by Kathryn Sheaffer. Irene Mensch gave a reading, "Next Time." Mrs. LeRoy Buhler directed the games and they proved a very interesting diversion. Mrs. Mark Williams winning the prize. On leaving for home, all thanked Mrs. Mensch for one of the most enjoyable meetings of the year.

BOY SCOUTS

Troop 66, Mt. Morris, will journey to Leaf River tonight to aid Troop 88, Leaf River, in outlining a reorganization program. The Leaf River troop is being recruited from the village school and interest is reported at a high pitch. It was reported this morning that a one session training course is being projected to be held for Paw Paw, Compton, Lee and Steward scouts.

MAKING LIFE COUNT

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton
"HOW can one make his life count today?" asks a young man, expressing what must be in many minds. "To make our lives felt in a day of mass thinking and mass movement, is not an easy thing to do."

"A few men of great gifts, or in unusual places, can make a real contribution to the human enterprise. But for most of us, such distinguished service is outside the field in which our life is cast."
"For us heroic living must be achieved, if at all, in the midst of obscurity and against currents which tend to draw us all into a blur of hum-drum and anonymity, and we are unable to rise above it."
There are really only three attitudes one may take toward life. One may run away from it, he may run with it, or he may try to run it. It needs no courage to run away, or to follow the crowd.

But if we mean to run our lives and make them count, we must have the courage to face inertia and the strength to swim upstream. Just because lives like our own make the current flowing the other way!

To make our lives count we must ally ourselves with issues that are vital, think them through, stand by them, and lift them forward by helping to create the kind of mind that can make them win.

If war is to be abolished, it is we, and others like us, who must do it. If fear and hatred are to be mastered, it is such as we who must do it. He who makes his life count for such ends, counts for much.

After all, he counts who has lived well, laughed much, who has gained the faith of a good woman and the trust of a little child, who sees the best in others and gives the best in himself.

No man, however obscure, is a failure who fills his niche in life and does his job with joy, who leaves the world a bit better than he found it, whether by a lovely poem, a loyal friend, or a little kindness.

It is such lives, in high or humble lot, which make the warp and woof of society, the basis of law and the rich soil for religion—men whose lives are an inspiration and whose memory is a blessing.

Mint Is Spring's Gift to Jaded Palates

BY MARY E. DABUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

I suppose it's a childhood association but mint means spring to me. My mother always was keenly concerned about my mint bed. And its aroma filled the air after the first few warm days of the year.

Of course, it's good with lamb but can be used in many combinations. English cooks use it with new peas and new potatoes because they consider it an aid to digestion.

Mint gives variety to old standbys, too. One tablespoon minced mint leaves added to one cup of crisp shredded cabbage dressed with lemon juice and oil is a new salad thrill. And try stuffing tomatoes with any kind of meat meat seasoned.

Blends With Cucumbers, Too
Even cucumbers blend with fresh mint leaves! All fruit cups become more alluring when mixed with minced leaves, as do grape fruit and bananas.

Iced tea and chilled fruit drinks of all kinds partake of its refreshing flavor.
The best known use of the leaves, however, is in the famous Mint Julep, as popular for being a long cold drink as for its tantalizing bouquet. The julep not only uses crushed leaves to give zest to the mixture, but includes a sprig floating on top to accent the delightful flavor. The same idea can be followed in soft drinks to enhance their popularity.

And it's not necessary to use a lot, either. Merely "bruising" leaves in the mixing bowl imparts sufficient flavor for most concoctions.

In sherbets, ices and syrups it becomes a versatile addition to many meals.
Mint Syrup
Two cups fresh mint leaves (minced), 2 cups sugar, 1 cup lemon juice, 1 1/2 cups water.
Cover leaves with sugar and pound with a wooden potato masher. Add lemon juice and water and bring to the boiling point. Let simmer fifteen minutes until the mixture is syrupy. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Mint Sauce
One-half cup mint leaves, 1/2 cup hot vinegar, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt.
Use only leaves and tender tips of mint. Dissolve sugar in vinegar and add to mint. Let stand in a warm place for an hour. Add salt, heat and serve. A double boiler is an easy way to keep the mixture warm for an hour without overheating.

Mrs. Zoller Will Lecture on Canned Products Thursday

Mrs. Helen B. Zoller, Home Economist and Culinary Authority will give a lecture, "Home Canning an Art," on Thursday at 1:30 at the I. N. U. building in Dixon. There is to be a free canning school and this class in food preservation will include the latest tested recipes, labor-saving devices, etc. The modern hostess serves home canned products.

Everyone is welcome to this fine lecture and demonstration by Mrs. Zoller who is presented on Thursday at 1:30 through the auspices of the Zion Household Science Club.

Cream butter and sugar. Add milk, extracts, salt, flour and baking powder. Blend well and add eggs. Beat 2 minutes. Half fill greased muffin pans. Insert teaspoons of pineapple. Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven.

Boiled Frosting

2 cups sugar

1 cup water

2 teaspoons vinegar

2 egg whites, beaten

1-2 teaspoon vanilla

Boil sugar, water and vinegar without stirring, until fine thread forms when portion is slowly poured from spoon. Pour into egg whites and beat steadily until frosting is cool and thick. Add vanilla. Frost tops of cakes.

PORTIERE CORDS

TRIM LATEST FROCKS.

Paris—(AP)—Silk cords, like those used to hold old-fashioned portieres, trim several new 1935 frocks. One frock of elasticized black tulle has a belt made of powder blue silk cord, another dress of black marocain crepe has an emerald green cord half an inch draped around the neckline, crossed over the front bodice and knotted about the waistline.

Doris Richardson Is Bride Floyd Derby In Pretty Ceremony

Miss Doris Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Richardson of Amboy, and Floyd R. Derby, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Derby of Freeport, were united in marriage in a very pretty ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Thursday evening at six-thirty o'clock. The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. R. W. Merrifield.

Before the ceremony Miss Yvonne Derby of Freeport, sister of the groom, gave a violin solo, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and Walter Wellman of Ransom, sang "Villia" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, lovely in a floor length gown of white silk net over tulle and floor length veil caught with orange blossoms carrying a shower bouquet of calla lilies and stock, descended the stairs to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Laura Lee. She was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Shirley Jane Richardson, sister of the bride, was her only attendant and was attired in a shell pink tulle dress and carried pink snap dragons and roses.

The groom and his best man, Wilbur Schrader of Freeport, met the bride at the improvised bower of ferns, flowers and tall white tapers. The men were both attired in full dress suits. Spencer Wellman, little cousin of the bride, bore the wedding ring on a tiny velvet cushion, the same one used at the wedding of the bride's parents.

The bride's mother wore flowered chiffon and the groom's mother a spring print and corsage of sweet peas.

Following congratulations a three course wedding dinner was served to sixty-five guests by eight of the intimate girl friends of the bride, Marie Ross and Edwina Leake of Amboy, Ethel Ross of Dixon, Eva and Grace Cox and Rose Mortenson of Lee Center, Etta Mae Ross of Princeton and Joyce Olmstead of Berwyn. The table decorations were in pink and white, the color scheme being carried out in the large three tier wedding cake which made a beautiful center piece for the bride table. Avon R. Cox of Lee Center, sang two vocal solos, "In the Garden of My Heart" and "At Dawning," between the dinner courses.

Mrs. Derby is a graduate of the Amboy Township High School in the class of 1932 and also graduated from Brown's College of Commerce in Freeport. Mr. Derby is in the employ of the W. T. Rawleigh Company of Freeport.

After a short honeymoon the newlyweds will make their home in Schullsburg, Wisconsin.
The out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bozarth and Misses Lida and Erma Stubblefield of Stanford, Ill., Mrs. Essa Doud of Springfield, Ill., Margaret and Wilbur Schrader, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer B. Kaufman, Betty Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. George Derby and daughter Miss Yvonne, Miss Minnie Entmeyer and Stanley Kent of Freeport, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson and daughter Esther, Mr. and Mrs. Mark D. Smith and daughter Marilyn and son Billy, Jr. of Dixon, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Breyman and daughter Jeanne of Rochelle, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wellman and daughter JoAnn and son Spencer of Ransom, Ill., and Mrs. A. W. Sperling of Fisher, Illinois.

Pride Hangs on The Polished Nail

By ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer

"You give us any number of reasons for using rouge, lipstick, powder, and creams, but you never have told us why you advocate nail polish," writes a woman in a large southern city. "Do you honestly think it improves the appearance of nails that are carefully and perfectly groomed?"

I really do think so.
In the first place, shiny polish gives the hands a finished look and, particularly if it is colored—even slightly—it tends to make them look more feminine.

Secondly, nail polish deserves some credit for the feeling of self-confidence and neatness it gives the woman who wears it. If you doubt this, wait until your nails are in horrible condition and then step into a shop for a bang-up professional manicure. Or, if you like, give yourself a good one at home. When the procedure is finished, the chances are ten to one that you'll feel like a new person.

Go to a bridge party without, nail polish one week and the next week, put some on before you start out. Be conscious of your hands on both occasions. Then, later on, try to remember your exact reactions both times. Unless you have a deep-seated prejudice against polish, I'll bet you remember most pleasantly the second party.

You don't have to wear bright nail lacquer, you know. There are dozens of shades, ranging from absolutely colorless on up to scarlet and wine tones. Generally speaking, the vivid colors are best for evening and dress-up affairs. Better stick to clear, light ones for daytime.

Some Hints For Desserts

Cinnamon Ice Cream
Dissolve one quarter of a cup of red cinnamon candies in three-quarters of a cup of scalded milk. Cool, place in refrigerator freezing tray until it is partially frozen. Put one-half cup of apple jelly in three unbeaten egg whites and beat to a stiff meringue. Next add cinnamon mixture and one cup whipped cream and freeze fast in freezing tray. Serves eight to ten.

Rum Sauce Topping
New! Unique! Delicious! Rum butter sauce poured hot on vanilla ice cream or cooked and stored in the refrigerator and served cold. Melt one-half pound of rum and butter toffee in a double boiler. Add four tablespoons of cream gradually and stir until well blended. This amount provides topping for six servings.

Rosbrook-Albrecht Wedding Solemnized

A quiet but impressive wedding ceremony was performed at the George Rosbrook home near Dixon, at high noon on Tuesday, when their daughter, Mary Rosbrook and Glen Albrecht, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Albrecht, were united in marriage by Rev. Myron A. Gross, pastor of the Red Oak Evangelical church. The single ring ceremony was used.

The bride was attractively attired in a blue ensemble and carried pink roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid, Gladys Rosbrook, a sister of the bride, wore a powder blue tunic. Everett Ackerman of Ohio Station was best man. Mrs. M. A. Goss sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied by C. Fahrney, who also played the wedding march.

After the ceremony a dinner was served by Mrs. Ira Rutt to the guests which included the following relatives: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Albrecht, Mr. and Mrs. George Rosbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Rosbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Tryon Rosbrook and Mrs. Idah Rosbrook.

Mrs. Albrecht is a graduate of the Dixon high school and Mr. Albrecht attended the University of Wisconsin.

The happy couple left immediately for a wedding trip. They will make their home on the Albrecht farm near Ohio Station.

Many friends extend congratulations to this young couple.

Mrs. Franklin Celebrated Her Birthday

Mrs. N. B. Franklin celebrated her 62nd birthday, Sunday, March 31st, at her home in Nachusa. A dinner was served to 21 people. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Franklin and family of Mt. Morris; Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin and family of Oregon, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Franklin of Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Martha and family of Dixon, Miss Lela Franklin of Villa Park, and Melvin Moser of Grand Detour.

Mrs. Thompson Was Honored by Family

Mrs. William E. Thompson, wife of Rev. Thompson, was reminded that her birthday was near at hand when she was invited into the kitchen, a short time after she and her family had returned to their home after church services. Her daughters, Marie and Mrs. David Wade, had arranged a large beautiful white cake with fifty candles on it in the center of the table and other light refreshments ready to serve. It was just a family affair but it furnished a splendid opportunity to honor their mother for her loving service in the home and every member of the family enjoyed the occasion.

Two children of the family could not be present, Mark who is in school at Manchester college, and Mrs. Mark Burner of Cando, North Dakota.

Mail to So. America Lost by Fire

Mrs. Alice Beede, who has many friends here, writes a dear friend from Chile, South America, that she will soon be leaving for the United States. In the same mail March 9th, Mrs. Beede sent C. C. Hintz a letter to be read to "a group in the Methodist church to which we both belong" states Mrs. Beede. The Telegraph has permission to print the letter after Mr. Hintz reads it to said group. It is sure to be interesting, for Mrs. Beede writes well, and describes people and scenes accurately and well.

Mrs. Beede and Mrs. Saunders are sailing on the Santa Lucia, May 4th, for the States, arriving in New York, either May 22nd or 23rd. The Santa Lucia is the steamship on which Miss Geisenheimer, who is enjoying a cruise in South American waters, sailed. Mrs. Beede regretted that the Lucia did not stop on her way down, but does so on her return trip.

Mrs. Beede continues—"Our mail from the States this week was transferred to a Chilean boat at Antofagasta, yesterday. The ship caught on fire and was completely destroyed, including eight sacks of mail for this port. So our mail is all lost and we do not know how many letters we have lost from friends at home."

SPENT THE WEEK END AT HAZELWOOD.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Walgreen of Chicago spent the week end at Hazelwood.

FOR SAFETY AT SEA

Action of the United States Senate in voting an investigation into the loss of the liners Morro Castle and Mohawk is a reminder that these two disasters were never properly cleared up, as far as the general public is concerned.

The Senate Commerce Committee will proceed to take testimony, to review the evidence already assembled by the Commerce Department and the Department of Justice, and to work out some new legislative program to make life and property safer on the seas.

It is this last part of the job which is the most important. We have a right to know why these two liners were lost; but the chief value of that knowledge will be that will enable us to keep such things from happening again. Something is decidedly wrong, somewhere, and it is up to the Senate committee to find out what it is and to set it right.

ESCAPE FROM REALITY

The way in which an economic crisis can be a direct menace to world peace was strikingly illustrated by a paragraph in a recent news dispatch from Berlin, telling of Germany's reaction to Hitler's rejection of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty.

"The entire country," said the dispatch, "has forgotten its economic troubles during the last few days to swamp Hitler's office with enthusiastic letters and telegrams of gratitude."

It is right there that the danger lies. Any national leader, confronted by an insoluble economic crisis, can always take his people's minds off their troubles by adopting a "strong" foreign policy. The temptation to adopt such a policy, therefore, is extremely great.

But a strong foreign policy is the kind of policy that eventually leads to war. In trying to submerge the economic problem, the leader runs the grave danger of starting something that can only be finished by fighting.

ACCIDENT PREVENTERS

Dr. Frederick W. Bancroft, associate professor of clinical surgery at Columbia University, reveals that there is a movement among medical men to foster the establishment of a long chain of medical first aid stations along American highways for traffic accident victims.

Frequency of such accidents, he points out, makes it necessary to provide some means of giving first-aid treatment to victims. A series of first-aid stations would save many lives and prevent much suffering.

It might also have another good effect. The presence of such a chain of dressing stations might shock us into realizing how intolerable our traffic accident toll really is.

Properly shocked, we might some day be stirred into taking action that would make highway traffic safer.

The higher education of women has made such great advances that there is little excuse any more for imagining that males must necessarily fill all the chairs of our colleges.—Prof. Harold A. Larrabee of Union College, Schenectady, N. Y.

Kings and queens belong to a bygone day. Royalty is dying; this is the age of democracy. The voice and welfare of the common people must be paramount to everything else.—Gen. George Kondylis, "hero" of the Greek revolution.

"You wouldn't call it smart to discard your aces in a card game, would you? Well, that's what the American League has done, discarded Babe Ruth, its ace of diamonds."—Rogers Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis Browns.

It is unpatriotic to compel one man to endure the hardships of war, perhaps to give his life, while another is earning profits from war.—Patrick J. Hurley, former secretary of war.

I am supposed to be an advanced thinker in this field. But I am for a good old-fashioned marriage until death do us part.—Judge Ben B. Lindsey, famous divorce court jurist.

THE TINYMYTES

(READ THE STORY THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The hen that pulled the egg-shell cart, grew frightened and began to dart around, and then the Hindu cried, "These Tinymites are good friends."

"They will not harm you, no, siree! So kindly come right here to me. I clapped my hands to call you. This is where your journey ends."

The big hen cackled with delight, and raced right up with all its might. "Now," said the Hindu, "maybe you will give these tots a ride."

"Right in the eggshell they will stay, if you don't run too far away. The shell will hold two tots at once. At least, that can be tried."

"Who is first?" yelled Duncy. "Guess I will take my turn, because the shell might break." "Oh, no you don't," snapped Scouty. "Be a little gentleman for once."

"The girls will be the first to try. We all can follow by and by. Why do you act so piggyish, lad; to prove that you are a dunce?"

The girls were helped into the shell and Goldy cried, "This will be swell. Just see the whip I have. It is a real long piece of vine. Of course I will not use it on the hen, but I will snap it now and then, to make the fowl go faster. I think it will work out fine."

Away the hen went, on the run. The Tines had a lot of fun just watching their two girl friends try to ang on good and tight.

The hen grew frisky, all at once, and started doing little stunts. Wee Goldie shouted, "Whoa, there, whoa!" her voice seemed filled with fright.

The Hindu clapped his hands once more, and up to him his trained hen tore. It stopped, and both the girls climbed out. Said one, "We have had enough."

"Somebody else can have a turn. Be careful though, because you will learn that when the hen starts running fast, the going is rather rough."

DO YOU KNOW ILLINOIS?

BY EDWARD J. HUGHES
Secretary of State.

The Secretary of State of Illinois is the State Librarian ex-officio. The State Library and Archives Division under his jurisdiction contain much information concerning your State. Any questions which are of particular interest to readers and which are not covered in this will be answered immediately. Address all communications: Edward J. Hughes, Secretary of State, Public Information Department, Capitol, Springfield, Ill.

Q. What did the Illinois territory include, (1809)?
A. Present states of Illinois, Wisconsin and portions of Michigan and Minnesota.

Q. What interesting provision concerning boundaries appears in the Illinois Enabling Act?
A. The act states that the constitutional convention "shall ratify the boundaries aforesaid (new boundaries) otherwise they shall be and remain as now prescribed." Had the convention taken advantage of this provision Illinois would have had an area of about 150,000 square miles.

Q. What is the present area of Illinois?
A. 56,665 square miles.

Q. What is the ratio of land and water area in Illinois?
A. Land: 56,043 square miles or 99 per cent; Water 622 square miles or 1 per cent, excluding part of Lake Michigan within the legal boundaries of the State.

Q. What were the legal boundaries of Illinois as prescribed by the convention?
A. East: middle of Wabash River and the Indiana state line to the northwest corner of Indiana, east along the northern boundary of Indiana to the middle of Lake Michigan thence north along the lake to 42 degrees 30' N. latitude. North: westward from the middle of Lake Michigan along 42 degrees 30' N. latitude to the middle of the Mississippi. West: middle of the Mississippi to the junction of the Ohio river. South: along the northwest shore of the Ohio.

Q. How was the revenue apportioned by Act of 1819?
A. The State received taxes on bank stock, non residents land, and two-thirds on residents' land. The counties were given one-half per cent on slaves and servants and permitted to levy additional tax of one-half per cent on personal property.

Q. How were revenue provisions revised in 1821 and 1827?
A. In 1821 two-thirds of residents land tax was assigned to the counties. 1827 all residents' land tax assigned to counties.

Q. What was the character of the currency in circulation in Illinois during the early years of statehood?
A. Notes passed at 40 different discounts varying with the reputation of the banks of issue.

Q. What were the sources of the early currency in Illinois?
A. New England banks, a few from western New York, more from Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, still more from Ohio and the south, particularly Tennessee and Kentucky. Local notes were few and U. S. bank notes very rare.

Q. What was the first attempt to establish a state bank?
A. The first General Assembly attempted to set up a bank with a capital of $400,000, half subscribed by the state and half by private persons.

Groups of girls have formed anti-marriage clubs in some of the larger cities of China, pledged to commit suicide rather than marry. On marriage, the Chinese maiden becomes the slave of her husband.

WORLD PEACE
BODY CALLED
LEAGUE ORGANDistributes League
Documents In Colleges

The World Peace Foundation continues to be official agent for the distribution of League of Nations documents in the United States, and in this capacity has maintained its efforts to increase the use of these authoritative primary sources of information.

The subscriptions to colleges begun a year ago have been continued wherever the college library, through lack of funds, could not send its own subscription. The Foundation is also securing publicity for the league documents through its association with the other organizations, advertisements and articles in their publications and frequent references to the publications in public addresses and radio programs.

The Foundation has recently undertaken a program to translate the results of research into popular language, a project which may be considered fully as important as the research itself. To this end, material of a genuinely elementary, educational nature has been prepared, designed to reach large masses of people who do not have any professional training or background in the field of international affairs. The first of these publications, entitled Foreign Trade and the Workers' Job, was prepared with the cooperation of experts in workers' education, and contains a foreword by United States Commissioner of Education Studebaker.

The Foundation has also broadened its work by the issuing of regular news releases for the daily, weekly and monthly press, and also by the preparation of radio programs. Not only have numerous radio addresses on international affairs been delivered by distinguished authorities, but electrical recordings of these addresses have been offered later to entire nations from coast to coast, including at the present time nearly one hundred and fifty stations. Among the speakers on these radio programs have been Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, New York Commissioner of Labor Andrews, Assistant Secretary of State Sayre, James F. Warburg, Peter Molyneux, Allen Welsh

NO country ever before glorified a man in postage as has Soviet Russia in one of its latest issues. Usually a country's hero is portrayed on one particular stamp.

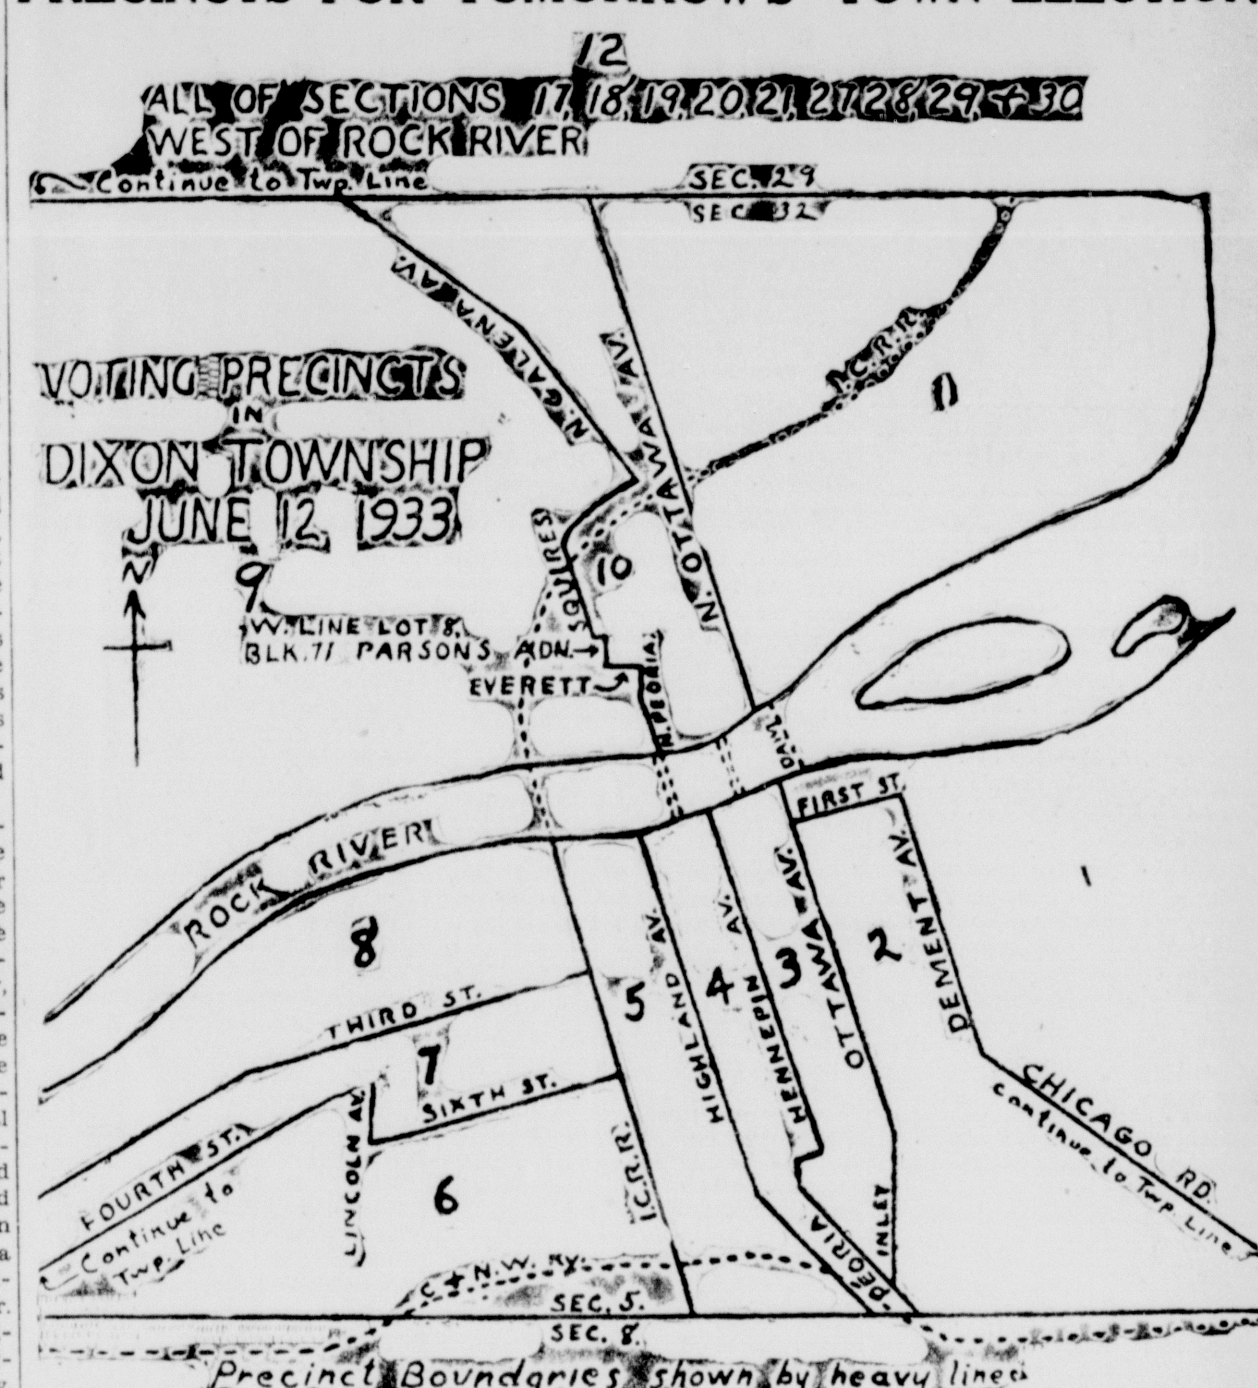

By Nicolai Lenin, former dictator of Russia, is presented in a series of six stamps on the tenth anniversary of his death. These stamps reveal six stages of the man's life, from childhood up, ending with one illustrating both Lenin and Stalin, his successor.

The U. S. S. R. has named this issue "Ten Years Without Lenin," a commemorative of the decennial of the man's death in 1924. During his dictatorship Lenin had refused to permit his portrait on a postage stamp.

DAILY HEALTH

DROPLET INFECTION

Some doggerel rhyme used in teaching health to school children ran as follows: "It is the breezes that spread diseases that come with sneezes." In this rather juvenile way was expressed the essence of Dr. Karl Flügge's demonstrations made nearly 40 years ago that disease germs can be spread by the droplets of mucus that issue from the nose and throat during coughing, sneezing, loud talking, etc.

We know that infection can be spread through food, water and by direct contact. We have taken measures to guard against the spread of infection by these avenues. But "aerial infection" continues substantially unchecked. Perhaps the indifference to droplet infection is due to the difficulty of visualizing how small globules of sputum and small particles of dust can act as conveyors of disease.

To demonstrate the reality and the importance of droplet infection, as well as to make some basic studies on what happens to droplets, a number of ingenious experiments have been conducted.

It is known that when a beam of light is passed through air free from particles in suspension, the beam is invisible. Such a beam, however, becomes visible as soon as there are suspended particles in the air, for these refract the light. This fact in optics has been used in the study on the destiny of droplets.

A powerful beam of light was passed in a steel chamber, the air content of which could be controlled. First water was atomized in the chamber. A cloud of droplets was produced, but these disappeared as soon as the spraying was stopped. Then, in the place of water, saline

The Grand Detour correspondent writes:

Grand Detour has a butter and cheese factory, a dancing hall and a skating rink but only one is open at a time. A few years ago the cheese factory was thought to be the business to make folks rich but this has been a failure and then the dance house was patronized liberally and that is among the things that were, and now the skating rink is booming and soon, if the Lord gives up plenty of rain and sunshine, Grand Detour will have two ferries running and the old fishermen will then commence to

Marketing... then and now

Once a "market" was a place where the pioneer farmer brought his produce and stock to bargain with his customers face to face. Today "markets" are world-wide, swiftly changing. Haphazard marketing, without up-to-the-minute information, is sure to reduce profits. Therefore the modern farmer depends on his TELEPHONE to learn when to sell and buy to best advantage. His marketing association, his customers and his suppliers can be reached in a jiffy by TELEPHONE. The thrifty farmer doesn't "hitch up" or get out the car when an errand can be "run" faster and cheaper by TELEPHONE. No farm is so big, no farm is so small, that a telephone will not add to its comfort, convenience and safety.

CARDS CHOSEN BY EXPERTS TO KEEP PENNANT

Bartell Addition Gives Giants Support

New York, April 1.—(AP)—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals stand out today as the choice of major league baseball experts to retain the National league pennant.

Of the 77 sports editors and baseball writers who participated in the ninth annual Associated Press pennant roll, 39 picked the Cardinals to repeat.

The general belief that the 1935 race will be strictly a two-team affair was adequately reflected in the poll for Bill Terry's New York Giants received 31 of the remaining 38 first-place ballots. The only other clubs likely to figure in the pennant race, as the experts see it, are the Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates. Four writers cast their first-place ballots for the Cubs and three for the Pirates.

Not only did the Cardinals and Giants together receive 70 of the 77 first-place ballots but they likewise monopolized the second-place votes, the Cardinals getting 33 of them and the Giants 31. Again Chicago, with six, and Pittsburgh with seven, were the only other clubs to figure in the balloting.

Giants Get Support.
Despite the Cardinals' 1934 exploits, strong support for the Giants has developed mainly because of the addition of Dick Bartell, peppery shortstop, to Terry's infield.

The most surprising feature of the 1935 poll was the writers' lack of confidence in the Cubs. They finished a close second to the Giants, choice for first place, in the balloting last year, drawing 34 first-place ballots against 40 for Terry's club. This year only ten writers believe they have a chance to finish one-two although they beat out the Pirates by a wide margin for third place.

The "box score" on the National league poll, showing the number of votes for each club in each position:

Team	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

By The Associated Press
New Orleans—Bill Terry is not a little ticked by the lackadaisical ball-playing of his New York Giants the past few days. After releasing two rookies, Jim Ashell and John Leonardo, to Nashville, Bill got rid of the following statement:

"And what is more, I have served notice on all the others that this program will continue if I wind up taking nobody back to New York with me except coaches Tom Clarke and Frank Snyder and Trainer Willie Schaeffer."

Winter Haven, Fla.—It will be a busy summer for Van Lingle Mungo, fireball pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers if Manager Casey Stengel adheres to his present plans. "I expect to use Mungo every four days," Casey said, "and work him in between whenever we need him provided he is able to pitch."

St. Petersburg, Fla.—This jack-of-all-trades business seems to have done Myril Hoag of the New York Yankees very little good. Hoag, an outfielder by trade, took a whirl at third base in addition to his regular fly-chasing job this spring but it looks now like he won't be able to force his way into either spot. He may not even be carried for utility duty.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Athletics today start on the last lap of their trip north. They headed for Griffin, Ga., to play the local team and later take a late train for Charlotte, N. C. The A's were on a 5-game winning streak when they arrived here Saturday.

Winter Haven, Fla.—The Phillies today primed their batters and runners in the hopes of another winning first inning in their last game. Yesterday, facing the Brooklyn Dodgers, they piled up a comfortable lead of four runs in the first frame and won 5 to 1.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—With a record of 11 victories in 14 exhibition games, the St. Louis Browns were on their way north today. They broke camp here last night after being beaten in their farewell appearance, 3 to 1, by Buffalo. The team will play Baltimore today at Kissimmee, Brooklyn tomorrow and Wednesday at Orlando and then will entrain for St. Louis and a six-game series with the Cardinals.

Bradenton, Fla.—Making their last appearance in Florida this spring the St. Louis Cardinals will oppose the New York Yankees today at St. Petersburg before beginning their trek north.

New Orleans—The Cleveland Indians started their northward trip today, leaving this city for McComb, Miss., to play another exhibition game with the New York Giants. Bill Knickerbocker, shortstop who underwent an appendix operation two weeks ago, was left behind to recover his strength. The Indians and Giants were rained out yesterday.

Orlando, Fla.—The Cincinnati Reds were primed for the Brooklyn Dodgers here today in the first of a series of games on their return trip home. The Reds broke camp late yesterday after losing 8 to 3 to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Lakeland, Fla.—The performance of a pair of left handers, Carl Fischer and Elton Hogsett, who held the Red Sox to six hits yesterday, although beaten 2 to 1, gave the pennant hopes of the Detroit Tigers a new spurt today. Detroit plays Montreal this afternoon.

Los Angeles—With only two days remaining of the stay on the Pacific Coast, Manager Charlie Grimm of the Chicago Cubs still has not decided on the makeup of his outfield. Kiki Cuyler will start the season in centerfield, but the other two jobs are still to be distributed among four candidates. Augie Galan, the former infielder, has the edge over Tuck Statback in left, while Chuck Klein and Frank Demaree are running about even in the battle for right field.

San Antonio, Tex.—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox, may not be sold on Zeke Bonura's fielding around first base, but he has no complaints about the big Italian's hitting.

Bonura was benched last week because of indifferent fielding, but was returned to action when Glen Wright, the general handyman, was moved from first to second to give Jack Hayes a rest. Yesterday he drove in four runs against the Pittsburgh Pirates with two home runs, one each off Guy Bush and Waite Hoyt.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—The Braves break camp Wednesday night, ending a training that hasn't been an entire success. Financially, they've done better than in years—thanks to the crowds who came to see the Babe work out. But from the viewpoint of games won, the Tribe has nothing to cheer about. The record is five victories out of 16 games.

Sarasota, Fla.—Columbus today and Newark tomorrow, then the Red Sox start home. The getaway is scheduled for Wednesday morning and Atlanta will be the first stop.

San Antonio, Tex.—The Pirates took a day off today, the second since training games started. The San Antonio stadium was unavailable for the scheduled game between the Bucs and Chicago White Sox. President Bill Benswanger apparently thought the vacation idea was a good one for he turned down several offers to go elsewhere and play.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Still trying to get back some glory after a dismal showing against minor league opposition, the Washington Senators were ready today to tackle Chattanooga of the Southern association. Games between the two teams were washed out Saturday and Sunday.

'Fricco Newspaper Says Maxie Will Marry Socialite

Sacramento, Calif., April 1.—(AP)—The Sacramento Union says Max Baer, world's heavyweight champion, will marry Mary Kirk Brown, Broadway socialite, sometime this summer or just as soon as Miss Brown's husband, Bobby Martin, of New York and Florida, obtains his divorce.

The paper says Baer gave out the story before he left here for Chicago Thursday and asked it not be released until his arrival in Chicago. Baer said he was going to New York "to court the sweetest girl in the world" and didn't care who knows it now, the Union says.

COOPER PROVES BEST MUDDER; ATLANTA GOLF

Atlanta, April 1.—(AP)—Light-horse Harry Cooper of Chicago, the best "mudder" in the bunch, held a two-stroke advantage over the field today in the $2,000 Metropolitan Open Golf tournament, with 18 holes left to play.

Cooper's card showed a 36-hole total of 142, made up of a brilliant 69 Saturday and a 73 Sunday. That 73 was scored in spite of a virtual cloudburst which left water standing on the greens and put a damper on the tournament.

Theremaining 18 holes of the 54-hole Metropolitan event were scheduled for this afternoon. After today's play the touring professionals move to Augusta, Ga., where the first round of the Augusta National tournament starts Thursday.

Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., was second to Cooper after yesterday's play with a 144. Picard turned in a 74 yesterday.

Ray Mangrum of Los Angeles scored a 73 also for a total of 145 and third place. One stroke behind came Byron Nelson of Texas, with a 67-19-146.

FOXX LIKES CATCHER JOB WITH MACKS

He Thinks A's Retain Hopes for 1935 Loop Pennant

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Atlanta, Ga., April 1.—(AP)—This would be a great day to pull the prediction that the Philadelphia Athletics will win the American League pennant, then leave town, just as the A's are doing themselves. Unfortunately the joker in the calendar would be detected quickly. Besides the A's won't win the pennant and Jimmie Foxx would be irritated.

The extra "X" in Jimmie's name marks the spot he is on this spring, doing the backstopping for the venerable Connie Mack's youthful aggregation and running the risk of checking abruptly the career of one of the greatest batsmen in the American League. After a month behind the bat during the season of the year when pitchers, especially young pitchers, are at their wildest, Foxx is unseated and has nothing more than a mild back ache to complain about. The truth is that Jimmie, despite some misgivings, likes his new job because "there's a future in it."

It is not generally known but Mr. Mack wanted to shift Foxx from first base to the catching department last year. Jimmie preferred first base and he declined to change jobs, to fill the big gap caused by Mickey Cochrane's departure, because the club was by mid-season going nowhere.

Different Proposition
"It's a different proposition this spring," admits Foxx. "It's a tougher job for me behind the plate but I'm satisfied now I can really help the club, also that we are going somewhere. Nobody is picking the A's to startle the league but I'm telling you we have a real club. We have power, speed and I'm sure we are going to get greatly improved pitching."

"Anything can happen in this year's race. There's no question Detroit has the edge now. Mickey's club has a lot of stuff but an accident or two might break it up and do the job quickly. It's a free-for-all otherwise, with no really outstanding team. That means we will have a chance to land somewhere in the first division and I'm anxious to help do it."

"Suppose it does chop 10 or 15 points off my batting average. That doesn't mean I won't continue to get plenty of hits and drive in a fair share of runs. Barring accidents, I expect to be behind the bat right along, taking my rest where I can get it."

SOONERS WANT BIFF JONES TO LEAD GRIDDERS

Norman, Okla., April 1.—(AP)—Student leaders of the University of Oklahoma today prepared "we want you, Biff" messages to be sent directly to Capt. Lawrence M. Jones of Louisiana State University, whom they seek for the Sooners football coaching job.

The messages, to be sent also to the war department in Washington, were designed to counteract "protests" against Jones sent to Washington by other students. Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of the university, sided definitely with those seeking Jones, declaring he personally favored the transfer of the famed professor of the gridiron here to replace Coach Lewie Hardage.

LAFOLLETTE IS FACING TEST IN OFF YEAR POLLS

Madison, Wis., April 1.—(AP)—While most of Wisconsin's citizenry viewed tomorrow's election as confined to off-season contests over judicial and municipal posts, the voting in ten counties took form today as the first popular test of Governor Philip F. LaFollette's strength since his election last fall as a Progressive.

Those ten counties provided races for two state senate seats and one assembly post that the governor would like to see filled by Progressives to bolster his strength in a legislature that has been divided at times against him.

The governor took an active part in the campaigns for the two senate seats, for it has been in the upper house that his legislation has met opposition. The Democrats hold 14 seats, the Progressives 11 and the Republicans six in the senate.

Another Progressive in the assembly would be welcomed, although the third party has had little trouble in the lower house where its members number 45 to 35 Democrats, 16 Republicans and three Socialists.

Progressive victories in the senatorial contest would confirm popular support of the younger brother of Senator Robert M. LaFollette after watching the new party function in the legislature for three months.

Defeats would be sharp rebuffs to the governor and his program of social legislation, high income taxation in upper brackets and wide-spread state work-relief, since the Progressives only six months ago scored victories in those two districts.

CULBERTSONS, SIMS' RESUME BRIDGE WARS

Culbertsons now Holding 9,830 Point Advantage

New York, Apr. 1.—(AP)—New bridge rules reducing penalties led kibitzers today to conclude that a burst of lively bidding was in prospect as the P. Hal Simses and the Ely Culbertsons resume their 150 rubber match with 110 rubbers to go.

Probably the new rules effective today will be most welcome to the portly P. Hal Sims and his wife-partner, Dorothy. They finished the first week of play trailing the Culbertson husband-wife combination by 9,830 points and must put on the pressure if they do not want to fall too far behind.

The decreased penalties in the new rules should offer an incentive to higher bidding. There were frequent occasions in last week's games on which both sides failed to reach game or slam bids, and it is likely they will adopt different tactics from now.

A kibitzer with an eye to "bating averages" has produced figures which Culbertson and Sims are running fairly close in the matter of contracts fulfilled in the games played last week, although such figures would hardly show any superiority of one player over another.

Of the 259 hands dealt last week, Culbertson played 74, fulfilling 51 and going down on 23 for a "bating average" of .689.

Sims Averages .616
Sims also played 74 hands, making 46 and being set on 28 for an average of .616.

Mrs. Sims was in third place with 574, making 27 contracts, and losing 20.

Mrs. Culbertson won 30 and lost 24 for an average of .555.

Ten of these 259 hands were passed out.

Crookford's club, where the match is being played, buzzed today over the announcement of Oswald Jacoby that he had declined reinstatement as a member of the club.

Jacoby, a member of the "four aces" bridge team, was dropped last week. Characterizing the action as inspired by "business rivalry," Jacoby said the expulsion had been a reflection on his honesty.

The club's executive committee, however, in offering him reinstatement, said no charges or suggestions had been made reflecting on his character or ethical conduct.

Jacoby said he "thought it best to decline."

JAMES A REED HITS NEW DEAL AND ITS CHIEF

Former Senator Assails Policies as Being "Economic Insanity"

Kansas City, Mo. April 1.—(Special.)—Economic Insanity was the term applied by former Senator James A. Reed today to the national administration's New Deal policies, and to the men responsible for them. He was speaking before the Optimist Club at a luncheon at the Hotel Meubleach.

"But their tenure in office may be short," he offered in solace. "Most of them could not earn a good living in private life."

"What the country needs," Senator Reed said, is a rebirth of common sense.

"If we had a few more men with opinions of their own," he said "we would not be quite so near the borderline of a dictatorship in the United States."

Senator Reed slammed adjectives at the alphabetical bureau.

Assails Killing of Pigs

"Killing 5 million young pigs was a crime," he said, and it makes no difference who did it. Willful destruction of property has been a crime listed on statute books for many years. That destruction created a corn surplus.

"Consider the fallacy of paying farmers to let fertile lands lie idle then spend millions of dollars to build dams to bring cactus land into cultivation.

"The trouble is that our leaders are following will-o-the-wisps, just painted dreams. Ten years ago the man who would have said that our country would trail off on such economic policies as have been put afoot would have been termed a lunatic.

"Where did these ideas come from? They came from the Reds and they originated in Red Russia.

Attacks Monetary Policy

"It is an age-old theory that there can be no prosperity unless the people know how, and where they stand. Anything else destroys their confidence. Destroy their confidence in the currency and there will be no building, no expansion. When any group of men can get together and fix prices, how are we going to have confidence?"

"The business of 125 million people cannot be conducted from bureaus in Washington. It could not be done even if the men in those bureaus were possessed of great intelligence and prudence. And God knows they are not.

"There has been no overproduction, but the government bureaus have cut down production, and people have to buy. Now they have to buy at double the former price. That is economic insanity.

"Do you know of any large enterprise begun or great expansion made in Kansas City in the last five years? You don't."

just and equitable regulation," he continued. "But congress has no constitutional right to enter into business in direct competition with private industry and to compel private industries to furnish through taxation money to be used by the government in competition with them and in some cases for their complete destruction.

Accepts Fair Regulation

"Private industry is willing to play the game in accordance with known rules laid down in advance, provided they are fair. It is willing that the government should supply referees and umpires. But for government in addition to writing the rules and furnishing the umpires, to get into the game itself, is not good sportsmanship, good sense, nor legally sound. The people of this country will not long tolerate such destructive procedure, which more than any other cause, is retarding economic recovery."

Magill described the TVA act as a pork barrel measure and said there are now pending bills proposing establishment of twelve other valley authorities in various parts of the country.

"The public has become groggy from the mass of Brain Trust experiments which have been fostered," he said.

"It would not be so bad if these economic planners, when propounding a theory, would admit they do not know if the measure will work. But to try it out on a grand scale before it has stood the test of a laboratory, is suicidal."

Press Blasts Germany

As Eden left the city, the Soviet press came forth with another blast against Germany. Michael Tukhachevsky, vice commissar for defense, in an article in the newspaper Pravda, declared Germany would have an army of 849,000 by the summer exceeding the French army by 40 per cent and almost equalling the Soviet army in size.

He charged Hitler with "lulling France to sleep" with anti-Soviet war talk in the hope France would not realize her own peril.

The joint statement of Eden and Stalin said the conferees believed it was now "more than ever necessary to pursue the endeavor to promote the building-up of collective security in Europe as contemplated in the Anglo-French communique of February 3 and in conformity with

POLES OPPOSED TO PROPOSED SECURITY TREATY

Fear It Would Result in Poland Becoming Big Battle Field

Warsaw, Poland, April 1.—(AP)—Firm opposition to any attempt to link Poland into the proposed eastern security pact seemed certain today to confront Captain Anthony Eden when he arrives here tonight for his discussions with Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, the Polish dictator.

Hostility to the projected eastern pact, which Russia favors and Germany opposes, is frequently voiced in semi-official circles on the grounds it might possibly result in Poland becoming a battlefield for the other powers.

Referring to Captain Eden's impending visit the official Gazeta Polska said, "Eden, who has seen opposite viewpoints regarding the eastern pact in Berlin and Moscow will be able to understand better the situation and the policy of a country located between two large countries having such divergent problems and attitudes."

Poland Wants Peace

The aged dictator may content himself tomorrow with only a broad declaration of Poland's desire for peace or enter into detailed proposals over the tea table for meeting the Menal and Pomorze minorities problems.

Competent quarters explained that these matters are secondary to the Polish wish for peace, "as a purely commercial benefit allowing us to send soldiers home, to build up the country's resources."

They conceded, however, that Poland is willing to cooperate in allaying these international irritations lest they become forerunners of war.

Memel, which some Nazis are known to look upon with covetous eyes, was described by a foreign office attache as "something not involving Poland intimately but nevertheless too close to home to be comfortable."

JAPS WOULD TALK

Tokyo, April 1.—(AP)—A high government spokesman today gave assurance that Japan is ready to discuss with the Soviet government the question of demilitarization of the far eastern frontiers.

At the same time the spokesman, Elji Amau, asserted the far eastern Empire "cannot think of any alliance with Germany."

Foreign diplomatic observers expressed the opinion such demilitarization would indirectly bolster the anti-German alignment of European powers.

It was pointed out the arrangement would afford the Soviet a security in the Orient which would enable her to transfer a portion of her Siberian garrisons westward.

Amau, however, emphasized that Japan's primary interest is the maintenance of "peace in eastern Asia, which we will protect at any cost."

The spokesman rejected the idea of an Oriental "Locarno" pact, saying Japan intends to keep questions of Oriental peace divorced from Europe's troubles.

"We believe European powers," he said, "should maintain peace in Europe; America peace in the Americas; and Asiatic nations peace in Asia."

EDEN ENCOURAGED

Moscow, April 1.—(AP)—Anthony Eden sped toward Warsaw today in quest of further bulwarks for peace encouraged by conversations with Joseph Stalin who agreed that the nations of Europe should unite for security whether Germany collaborates or not.

In a joint communique they asserted that the Anglo-French peace plan concluded at London should be made the basis for preserving Europe's stability.

"Loyalty to obligations" as members of the League of Nations was fixed as the guiding rule for mutual relations and the "spirit of collaboration" between Russia and Great Britain.

Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, in bidding Captain Eden farewell at the railroad station, said, "I wish you every success, for your success is our success."

Eden clasped the hand of his host and replied, "the same to you."

COUGHLIN, LONG BOTH ATTACKED ADMINISTRATION

Priest Calls NRA, AAA Failures; Huey Says Laws Make Misery

Washington, April 1.—(AP)—Word missiles flew as Hugh S. Johnson, Father Charles E. Coughlin and Senator Huey P. Long spoke again over the week-end.

Johnson declared Father Coughlin meant to be an American Hitler. Hitting the monetary system advocated by the priest, Johnson said: "If a nonsensical monstrosity ever flowed from the men of man, this is it. This plan for which Father Coughlin has been taking tens of thousands of dollars from the poor is no plan at all."

Father Coughlin replied that "throughout the ages bigots who hated the church and the principles of social justice" have "trumped up the charge that we are bleeding money from the poor."

The charge is made, he said, by men who "get their money from the crimson hands of Wall Street, crimsoned with the blood of industrial martyrs."

Eagle "Blue Buzzer"

Senator Long made no direct reference to his foe Johnson, but called his blue eagle creation a "blue buzzard" and said the Roosevelt recovery plans were as sensible as taking the "wheels off an automobile to make it run faster."

The capital noted with interest that both Long and Father Coughlin are now engaged in an intensified effort to build up their organizations.

Political observers with eyes on 1936 did not overlook the fact that Long, in a radio speech last night, devoted much of his time to an appeal for support for his Share-the-Wealth Clubs—though he got in a few swipes at the Roosevelt administration.

Nor was Father Coughlin's announcement of a new setup for his National Union for Social Justice lost upon them. He disclosed that the membership would be concentrated into state organizations, which would have nation-wide radio meetings.

Talk of Third Party

With speculation about a third party movement forming the theme of much political discussion, the Louisiana senator brought the subject up last night. He said President Roosevelt himself once had a third party in mind.

"When Roosevelt was making all his promises before his nomination in Chicago and it looked like we would not be able to hold the thing in line, he phoned to us that he would run as a third party candidate if he failed to secure the nomination," Long said.

"Now the Roosevelt brigade," Long declared, "is sounding out the cry that they very much fear a third party in the United States."

Combining an appeal for his share-the-wealth program with an attack on New Deal measures, Long said:

"Make Misery Worse"

"They have posted laws and rules, books and codes over us to make our misery worse; they have hounded us with inspectors, clerks, regulators and bureaucrats to tantalize us in our distress; they browbeat the sick while they go through the death rattle."

"Help us! Help us! I ask you."

Quoting the Bible, the Declaration of Independence, Theodore Roosevelt and others to reinforce his plea for share-the-wealth, Long also took another fling at NRA, which he called a "blue buzzard" given the country by a "prince charming administration."

PRIEST HITS BIGOTS

Detroit, April 1.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin struck back Sunday night at critics whom he branded as "bigots" who have trumped up the charge that we are bleeding the poor."

While Gen. Hugh Johnson, former chief of the NRA was mentioned only once during the course of the priest's weekly discourse, the stirring phrases on the money problem, were widely interpreted as a reply to charges made by Johnson on Father Coughlin in a speech at Chicago Saturday night.

In that speech the fiery general charged that Father Coughlin took "from the pennies of the poor much money never accurately accounted for" to support his National Union for Social Justice.

"Throughout the ages every bigot who has hated the church and the principles of social justice advocated by the church," the priest retorted, "has trumped up the charge that we are bleeding the money from the poor."

AAA, NRA Failures

"That was the charge made by Stalin. That is the recent charge which has assaulted the ears and intelligence of the American public by those who have out-Stalined Stalin."

"May I ask x x x where they get the principles of the League of Nations."

The communique emphasized that security and mutual assistance pacts do not air at "isolation or encirclement" of any state, which was taken as a reference to Germany. Both the Reich and Poland the statement said, would be welcomed as participants.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MILICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRINGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. Millicent has a notebook in which Dringold had begun to dictate a confession.

In panic she rushes away, registers at a hotel under an assumed name.

JARVIS HAPP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty parlor where she is transformed into a brunette, then takes her home and introduces her as his secretary. She meets HARRY NORMAN, HARRY's stepson, ROBERT CAISE, and MRS. HAPP.

Millicent falls asleep and wakes to find a note under her door reading: "The woman in black crime is here." Millicent dresses, sees the woman in black drive away and follows in Robert Caise's car, but runs out of gas. She goes to the chauffeur's quarters and finds him dead.

Next morning Jarvis Happ tells her the chauffeur has been murdered and shows her a handkerchief (Millicent's) which he found in the dead man's room.

Robert Caise enters Millicent's room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XVI
MILICENT held her hand close to her side, hoping she had concealed the key container, which was pressed against her robe.

"Will you learn to keep out of my room!" she blazed with indignation which did much to conceal her panic. "Is he going to be necessary for me to have a spring lock put on that door, or must I appeal to your mother to force you to show at least ordinary decency and respect to a woman?"

He laughed and said, "Oh, come off your high horse. You'd go down to a beach in a bathing suit with nothing more on than a bandana handkerchief, and . . ."

"But I'm not down at the beach," she said, "and if I were I would exhibit myself in such apparel as I chose for public exhibition. I wouldn't invite the public to drop in on me at inopportune moments. Will you please get out of here?"

The smile faded from his face and he became instantly surly. "I'm going to ask you a few questions first."

"I'm not going to talk with you," "Did you know that there'd been a murder committed here last night?"

Millicent narrowed her eyes, stood very straight, very erect and very dignified.

"I am not going to let you get away with such an intrusion," she said, "by making any startling statements. If you told me the whole family had been murdered. I wouldn't let you dodge the question we were discussing."

"What question?"

"Your right to come into my room without knocking."

"I don't claim it's a right. I did it because it's a matter of an emergency."

"I tell you that I'm not going to allow you to distract my attention."

"You're suspected."

HIS eyes were boring steadily into hers. "The police," he said, "are going to suspect you. They're going to suspect everyone. You're going to be questioned by the police. They're going to ask you who you are, where you've been living, how long you've been living there, and a hundred other things. What are you going to tell them?"

"What I'm going to tell them," she said, "is my business."

"Listen," he told her. "I'm your friend—that is, I want to be your friend, but you and I need to come to some understanding. You can't be high-bait with me. I just want to let you know that whether or not the police suspect you of the murder depends a lot on what I say. You'd better know which side of your bread has the butter."

"Meaning, I suppose, that I should fall in your arms," "You could do worse."

"What would your mother say?" "She wouldn't know."

"I take it then that you're not proposing matrimony."

"Don't be silly."

"I'm not," she said, "and what's more, I have no intention of being."

"Someone," he told her, "stole my car last night."

"Indeed."

"They took the ignition keys from the car."

"I'm sorry, Mr. Caise, but I'm not interested in you or your car."

"Well," he said, "a moment ago you were pulling something out of the pocket of your fur coat and . . ."

He took a step toward her, reaching out as though to pull her right hand from her side.

Millicent thought rapidly. There was only one thing to do. She did it with bewildering quickness. Her left hand lashed out, striking him across the side of the face with a stinging slap. As he recoiled she slapped him again and again. He grabbed at her arm, and as he did so she took advantage of the opportunity to toss the key container far into the interior of the closet.

"Get out," she said, "or I'll scream."

He had caught her arm now. His face was suffused with emotion. "Damn you," he said, "I'll show you whether you can do that and get away with it! Just who do you think you are, you little she-devil?"

SHE struggled to break free, and he gave her arm such a savage twist that it almost broke the bones. Despite herself, an involuntary scream was wrung from her lips.

The door from the hall crashed open. Norman Happ stood on the threshold.

"You dirty cad!" Norman Happ said, striding across the room. Caise whirled to face him.

"You keep out of this," he said. Norman Happ placed his right hand on the shoulder of Caise's coat. His fingers gripped the cloth.

"Wait a minute," Caise said, "before you do anything rash. See what she's got in her right hand and you won't be so chivalrous."

Caise had relaxed his grip somewhat, and Millicent swung her right palm in a slap against the side of his face.

"That's what I've got in my palm, you beast!" she said.

Caise cursed, jumped back, letting go his grip of her. He completely lost control of himself, and swung his fist at her chin.

Millicent flung up her hands instinctively. The blow crashed through her guard, struck her on the side of the head. Then she heard the smacking impact of bunched knuckles against bone. She opened her eyes and stared dazedly at Robert Caise staggering backwards, while Norman Happ, standing with his feet planted wide apart, his jaw thrust belligerently forward, glowered at him.

"Get out of here!" Happ

WAR BELIEVED IMPOSSIBLE BY HIS HOLINESS

Pope Pius Says Conflict Would be Enormous and Futile Crime

Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press
Vatican City, April 1.—War, Pope Pius told the 19 cardinals gathered for the secret consistory today, "would be so enormous a crime, so foolish a manifestation of fury, we believe it absolutely impossible."
The Pontiff, speaking with tremendous emphasis, said, "we cannot in fact persuade ourselves that those who should have at heart the prosperity and well-being of peoples should be willing to push to suicide, to ruin and to extermination not only their own nation but a great part of humanity."
If, however, there is someone who wishes to commit "this nefarious crime," then, the Holy Father said, he could do nothing else than pray to God to "destroy those peoples who desire war."

Fears Aroused
At this moment, he continued, the "clamor of war is universally diffused and the cause of agitation to all and arouses in everyone the greatest fear."

It is for this reason, he said, he wished to speak today through his apostolic office.
The Pontiff said the "enormous crime," which he regarded with such abhorrence, would result if "peoples once more take up arms one against the other and if once more the blood of brothers is spilled and if destruction and ruin are spread on the earth and in the sea and the sky."

After his presentation of the canonization of the blessed Thomas More and Bishop John Fisher for approval of the cardinals the Pope said that despite this reason for profound joy "wherever we turn our eyes to that frightful crisis—economic, political and especially moral—in which humanity is caught, when we consider the consequences still more tragic than one fears for the future, there is indeed reason to be deeply sad."

Damage Unrepaired
"However, it is true that while damage from the last European war has not yet been repaired," he continued, "here again the horizon is darkened with thick clouds pierced by sinister rays—something which keeps mind in suspense and trembling."

"The words of Jesus Christ are recalled to our minds, 'You shall hear of wars and sedition,' 'x x x' 'There will be x x x pestilences and famine and terror from heaven; and there shall be great signs; x x x men withering away from fear and expectation of what shall come upon the whole world.'"

"We are not surprised, therefore," Pope Pius said, "if people in so much consternation and so much confusion of nations turn their eyes from every side to the common Father in order to ask for life, relief and hope."

It was for this reason, said His Holiness, that he wished to speak today.

"In fact, if in every time men have need of Christian virtue and of hope," he said, "it is especially necessary they have recourse to it with greater intensity in these calamitous times believing for certain they themselves and their affairs are governed by the sign of God."

Two Canonized
Twenty cardinals, gathered in the first secret consistory called in 18 months, raised their hands to approve the canonization of Sir Thomas More and Bishop Fisher, who lost their heads for opposing the marriage of Henry VIII to Anne Boleyn.

The consistory also approved the nomination of Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli as Camerlengo. In this capacity he acts as Pope during the period between the death of one pope and the election of his successor. Pacelli succeeds the late Cardinal Pietro Gasparri, veteran ex-secretary of state. No new cardinals were created.

The consistory likewise preconized, or confirmed, the appointment of American and other archbishops the Pope has made since the last consistory.

The American archbishops and bishops included:
Mr. William O'Brien, Auxiliary Bishop to Cardinal Mundelein, Chicago; Mr. Elmer J. Ritter, Bishop of Indianapolis; Mr. Gerald T. Bergan, Bishop of Des Moines, Ia., and Mr. William M. Griffin, Auxiliary Bishop of La-Crosse, Wis.

MINERS HOLIDAY CELEBRATED ALL OVERTHENATION

West Frankfort, Ill., Apr. 1.—(AP)—A holiday celebrated today by union coal miners in commemoration of the advent of the eight-hour working day, carried double significance as 6,500 working in Franklin county rejoiced over the successful efforts of NRA overtures in preventing a shut-down of mines following failure of mine union officials and operators to agree upon a new contract to replace the old agreement which expired at midnight Sunday.

The effect of the truce was readily reflected in local business, dormant for the past few weeks due to the fear of a possible suspension of operations and another long summer of idleness in the coal fields.

Although it is expected the miners will get but little work during the next few weeks, until coal stored in anticipation of a strike has been marketed, huge pays during the next four weeks representing the steady work of the past month are expected to provide a hearty stimulus to local trade circles.

Today's holiday is being observed in nearly all the states and in many of the provinces of Canada. In Colorado it is a legal holiday.

DIXON YOUTH IS ABOARD STEAMER ON SOUTH SEAS

Ferris Hinds Writes of Voyage, His Second, to South America

S. M. Hinds has received an interesting letter from his son Ferris, who is employed on the S. S. Coya of the Grace Line and is now on his second voyage to South America. The letter, which required postage of 7 pesos and 60 centavos, was postmarked "Antofagasta, Chile" and was only six days in reaching Dixon by air line. Interesting briefs from the letter are:

"Left Los Angeles, Jan. 27th for Manzanillo, Mexico, arriving Jan. 28th for overnight. Leaving there, visited principal Central American ports. On Feb. 3rd we were in Amapala, Honduras, and in leaving that port struck a reef, which tore a great hole in the ship's bottom. For a thrill, just trying piling upon a tropical reef! Though badly damaged and leaking the vessel proceeded under its own steam toward Balboa, Canal Zone, limping into that port five days later, where we remained eighteen days undergoing repairs. I visited the city of Panama and found it very interesting, spending an entire day in Old Panama where I viewed the old ruins, a reminder of the buccaneer days of the 17th century. We arrived in Talora, Peru in time to witness the festivities of a fiesta that lasted several days and nights. The sleepy little town was crowded with people from the interior, many of whom had never seen so many 'gringos' at one time in their life. Many other ships were in port there, including Canadian, English, Norwegian and Swedish."

Four Nights in Lima

"I spent four nights in Lima, the capital city of Peru, where I enjoyed my visit immensely. Visited the port of Arica, in North Chile, which is also a port for Bolivia. Arica is of historical importance on account of the great battle that occurred there during the Chilean-Peruvian conflict of 1879-85. A little farther south, I heard rumblings of a more recent conflict and one that is not yet settled. On my previous visit to these parts, I purchased a membership card in a club at Topicalia, Chile, where English is spoken. In this place I read many war bulletins from the Gran Chaco front, scene of hostilities between Bolivia and Paraguay. The fighting has taken heavy toll from both armies, but apparently Paraguay is winning, due principally to the intense patriotism of its Caucasian population. Even the women are joining the ranks along with the men. Bolivia has oppressed its people so long and hard that they are not interested in the government's war program.

RELIEF ISSUE BOBS UP AGAIN IN STATE HOUSE

Committee Sent to Washington, Finds Out Little

Springfield, Ill., April 1.—(AP)—With the Chicago and a number of other city elections out of the way Tuesday, the general assembly, which reconvenes Wednesday, will again tackle the relief question.

So far as is now apparent, the issue will be taken up exactly where it was dropped two weeks ago when the legislature decided to recess until the municipal elections were over.

The house committee which has been in Washington this week in an effort to determine federal reaction to a number of legislative ideas on the question has, apparently, learned little that was not known in Springfield before its departure.

What Assembly Knows
The committee, known among legislators as the "Cherry Blossom" junket, has been told, as the assembly was previously informed, that:

(1) The state will be required to raise $3,000,000 monthly as its part of the $12,000,000 relief load in Illinois.

(2) The Federal Emergency Relief Administration is satisfied with the present set-up for relief administration in the state and frowns on the numerous bills in the legislature to abolish the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission or to curtail its powers.

Unless other developments take place before Wednesday the relief question, when the legislature reconvenes, will be in the status quo except that critics believe the treatment accorded the "Cherry Blossom" junket in Washington has furnished them with additional ammunition to direct against national relief policies.

The house is expected to resume its routine this week but the senate plans on "staying at home" an additional week, having scheduled perfunctory sessions until April 9. Meanwhile, various state officials are seeking to complete their budget requests so that the appropriation bills may be presented early this month.

CHAR-DON-IGRAMS

By CHAR-DON.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
Over fifty years ago, a Captain Henderson and crew in a frigate put out to sea through the Golden Gate bound for the Orient. On arriving in Chinese waters Henderson steered his ship into the port of Woosung. He spent many happy hours, weeks and years in and around Woosung and returned to America with happy memories clustered around that little Chinese city on the sea. And so it came to pass that years later he came to the middlewest, and in memory of his days in China, he founded the little village which lies north of Dixon on the Freeport road, hence the derivation of its name.

Jan Steen, a Dutch painter who ranked next to Rembrandt, was noted for his ability to portray scenes of everyday life with dramatic effect. We have not seen many reproductions of his pictures, but we recall especially his "Gamblers Quarreling," a picture that was recently loaned to the Detroit Institute of Arts and which depicts the confused interior of a tavern—men fighting, tables overturned, money and cards on the floor, and in the foreground, a woman—a woman who struggles to prevent a villainous looking fellow from drawing his sword.

The other day, however, we ran across another Steen picture—"The Gallant Offering." This picture represents a young gallant flirting with a buxom wife while the stupid husband sits nearby and cracks nuts. In the background is the cook, and with the cook is a clownish-looking fellow with an enormous nose. And not only is the nose enormous, but the man had his thumb to it and is pointing with the forefinger at the stupid husband.

And it is in this big-nosed chap that our interest centers. Why? Because he is none other than Uncle Bim Gump. Here, at last, we have Bim Gump tracked down to the lair of his origin. Here it is that the newspaper funnies and art institutes meet on the same ground.

Look up "The Gallant Offering," painted by Jan Steen in the seventeenth century, and there, in the picture's background, stands your Uncle Bim Gump. Does Sidney Smith know anything about Jan Steen? We'd like to know.

What a Sucker He Was!

CONVICT FISH OF MURDERING GIRL: TO DIE
When a fish kills a girl that's news!

We hear a lot of talk these days about inflation and naturally enough. At time of this writing, the Senate has passed an appropriation amounting to nearly five billions for the purpose of substituting actual work for those now on the dole. It is also quite certain the veterans bonus will be paid and that necessitating two billions more of government cash raises the jack-pot to heights never attained before in the history of the world.

Some of this money will be raised by government bonds, tax-exempt and interest bearing, and the remainder by printing fresh, new greenbacks supported by silver. The policy of buying our way out of the depression might be O. K., and it might not. We'll leave it to the economists to quibble over that point, but the simplest of simple knows all this will have to be paid for, and when the pay-off comes—what then, little man?

Not this, we sincerely hope: A Reichsbank note, put out by the German government before the war were worth $23,820.00 in our money. But eventually it took a trillion marks to get twenty-four cents in gold. That is what uncontrolled inflation did to Germany. The resulting chaos is well known.

The second lieutenant had his platoon marching away from him. They were headed straight for the embankment and the lieutenant was speechless. At last the Regular Army instructor yelled at the new officer, "Say something, you dumb-bell, if it's only 'good-bye!'"

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Reality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 31.

The Golden Text was, "Thou, O Lord, shalt endure for ever; and thy remembrance unto all generations" (Psalms 102:12).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things. Those things, which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do; and the God of peace shall be with you" (Philippians 4:8-9).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Scriptures imply that God is All-in-all. . . . He is all inclusive, and is reflected by all that is real and eternal and by nothing else. He fills all space, and it is impossible to conceive of such omnipresence and individuality except as infinite Spirit or Mind. Hence all is Spirit and spiritual" (p. 331).

It requires 8400 years for light from the "Milky Way" to reach the earth.

WAR THREAT IS DISTURBING TO GEN. PERSHING

But 74-Year-Old Military Leader Refuses to Talk for Press

Tucson, Ariz., April 1.—(AP)—Threats of war and Germany's new aggressiveness have somewhat disturbed the tranquility of Gen. John Joseph Pershing's winter beneath the Arizona sun.

The commander-in-chief of America's fighting forces in the World War is keeping a wary eye on the present situation "Over There" while resting and writing his memoirs.

Piled high on a table in the cottage where he lives at a resort hotel on the desert's edge are copies of newspapers dating back more than two weeks to Adolf Hitler's announcement of Germany's new policies—moves that have alarmed the world.

Morning and afternoon General Pershing eagerly scans the accounts of the fast changing European picture, trumpeting many a fiery "humph!" as he takes note of new demands which would mean the scrapping of the Versailles treaty.

What does he think of this threat? Will war result? Will the United States become involved again?

Not For Publication

The whole world perhaps would like to know his answers to these questions and others, but he has steadfastly refused to discuss this new peril to world peace. That is, he refuses to "talk for publication." "I have very definite ideas about the matter," he explained. "But I can't afford to express them for publication—it would not be right for me to do it."

In much better health than when he first came here two years ago, General Pershing rides horseback in the desert, motors into the mountains, and visits ghost mining towns, historic forts, archaeological ruins, Indian mounds, old Spanish missions, museums, and dude ranches.

Arthritis, however, still causes the 74-year-old military leader considerable trouble.

Windsor Castle in England has gardens covering 70 acres, of which 23 are devoted to vegetables. There is one flower border which is 200 yards long and 15 feet wide on each side of a grass walk.

The Wickersham Commission placed the annual cost of crime in this country at more than $1,124,000,000. Criminal law administration in 300 cities accounts for $247,700,000 of this amount.

"FIRE FIGHTING IS MY JOB," says Stanley Adams, fireman. "It's exciting, yes—but it's difficult, exhausting work, too. There's a lot of pleasure in a Camel, especially when you're tired out. When I feel 'all in,' I like a Camel to freshen me up. Camels give me new 'pep' and energy. Camels have more flavor—and yet they're mild, for I've found I can smoke them steadily and they never upset my nerves. I'm ready any time to 'walk a mile for a Camel!'" (Signed) STANLEY ADAMS

FROM THE BUSY COLLEGE WORLD comes this comment. John L. Filson, class of '36, says: "It's a great relief to smoke a Camel any time I'm tired and quickly experience a delightful return in energy. And boy! do Camels taste good!" (Signed) JOHN L. FILSON, '36

"RUNNING A HOME involves details that use up energy," says Mrs. Ross Kelley. "When things irritate me, I smoke a Camel. Soon I have renewed energy and can go on to the next task. Camels have such a mild flavor, I've become quite a steady smoker." (Signed) MRS. ROSS KELLEY

"THE MOST ENJOYABLE WAY of easing strain is smoking Camels," says this newspaper man. "When I feel 'all in,' I can restore my energy with a Camel." (Signed) RAY BAKER

"CAMELS BRING BACK a feeling of vigor," says F. W. Evans, electrical engineer. "They're milder, but have a rich, appealing taste." (Signed) F. W. EVANS, E. E.
